Howe and Kidston Packing Houses Are Completely Destroyed by Fires Which Are Very Clearly of Incendiary Origin

Blazes In Early Hours Of Sunday Morning Wipe Out Coldstream Plants

Howe Will Resume Packing Next Week

Practically No Clear Clues Are Available As Police Hunt For Culprit

Fires of undoubtedly incendiary origin completely demolished the A. T. Howe and Kidston packing houses in the Coldstream in the early hours of last Sunday morning, causing total damage estimated roughly at $25,000.

All That Was Left by The Flames

The fires broke out shortly before 4:30 a.m., the one on the Howe prop-

THANKS

Editor, The Vernon News, Sir: In connection with the recent unfortunate fires in the Coldstream, which entirely destroyed two packing plants, I would like to express my sincere appreciation of the many offers of assistance which have been made and for the spirit of co-operation which has been shown by shippers in offering facilities for the handling of my crop.

In particular, I would like to express my thanks to Mr. Chambers of the Associated Growers, the Occidental Fruit Company, Lander Company, B.C. Fruit Shippers and United Fruit for their immediate offers of assistance and my gratitude to the Vernon Fruit Union for their kindness in caring for the packing of my crop during reconstruction of my plant.

Yours very truly, A. T. Howe.

ery evidently having been set shortly before the one which razed the almost neighboring premises.

Though strong efforts were made to fight the flames it was apparent that very little could be done with the limited facilities available. Water was brought from the creek near the Howe property, and a small structure there was removed, the office being saved.

Smouldering Ruins

But dawn revealed that the packing house itself, its machinery, and about three carloads of apples were a mass of smouldering ruins, levelled to the ground, with the Kidston plant representing a similar appearance of total loss.

The damage, it is reported, is well covered by insurance.

That the fires were both deliberately set is abundantly evident, according to the police and the owners. The flames started in sections of the buildings at points where the winds would carry them through both plants. A supply of gasoline at Howe's was emptied, and it was not used to add to the spread of the fire there. The fact of both places being burned, moreover, is too co-incidental to admit of any other theory than that an incendiary was at work.

It seems also established that the

TO DECIDE BALL CHAMPIONSHIP AT PENTICTON SUNDAY

"Sudden-Death" Scheme Worked Out—Oroville Defeats Pentiction To Tie Series

Vernon baseball fans will have another chance to cheer the blue and white colors of their team at Pentiction next Sunday, when the league championship, now divided among the three teams from Vernon, Pentiction, and Oroville, will be decided.

As a smashing climax to the game that was to decide whether or not Pentiction was to become champion of the South Okanagan Baseball league, and whether or not Vernon was to get another chance at that same title, Oroville staged a last minute rally in the ninth inning, to beat Pentiction 3-2. The ninth inning found the score tied 2-2, and two men of the Oroville team down. In a supreme effort, the Oroville men filled the bases, and netted the needed run. As a result of this it has been decided to hold two games at Pentiction on Sunday next to settle the question.

In the round-robin series, Vernon first beat Oroville, and then lost to Pentiction. Then Oroville completed the chain by beating Pentiction, and everything was clinched up again. It is planned for Sunday next that names of the three teams will be placed in a hat, two being drawn. These teams will face each other in the first fixture. The winner of this game will play the remaining team.

With uncertain weather at this time of year, and many members of the various teams now finding it difficult to get away for practice because of seasonal work, it was felt that it would be in the best interests of the game to decide the championship at the end of this week.

Because of the keen interest displayed during the season and because of the unusual situation that has developed through the system of round-robin play-offs, it is expected that there will be a large gallery to see the final plays.

"GINGER" COOTE FINDS MISSING RUTLAND HUNTER

Pilot Succeeds After Other Searchers Had Failed To Locate C. H. Bond

The value that scouting by plane can be, when all other means appear utterly failed, was most ably demonstrated on Wednesday when R. L. "Ginger" Coote, well known pilot, succeeded in locating C. H. Bond, of Rutland, after the latter had been lost since Sunday.

Mr. Bond had left with a party of friends for the Greystoke dam area. He became separated from the others, and after three days the efforts of all searchers failed to locate him.

An appeal was made to the Hon. Grote Stirling, who spoke on Tuesday evening at a meeting at Lumby. The minister was asked if some government planes might not be placed at the disposal of searchers but Mr. Stirling in the interests of quicker action got in touch with Alderman Wilder here, who informed the minister that "Ginger" Coote had landed on Kulusk Lake in his seaplane earlier, accompanied by Cliff Poene, his engineer, in another seaplane.

Appealed to while attending a dance in the National Ballroom, Mr. Coote agreed to start his search the next day.

On Wednesday, when Mr. Bond was located, it was immediately apparent that he had wandered very far from where he first lost his companions. The pilot dropped a message to him, asking him to stay where he was until he could guide searchers to him, and he also dropped him food. He reports that the lost man seemed in good health. It took the plane just about an hour to locate Mr. Bond, who had lighted a fire.

MAKES OBJECTION REGARDING SCHOOL FACILITIES HERE

The general business of the City Council on Monday evening was marked by a communication from Ralph Pearson, of Vernon, demanding that his daughter be given accommodation in the regular High School building, rather than in the church basement on Mara Avenue, which is being used at present to house an overflow of students.

Mr. Pearson took objection to the fact that while Vernon residents' children were accommodated in the overflow schoolroom, students from outside Vernon were placed in the Vernon High School. Mr. Pearson went on to say that he insisted on his daughter receiving the use of the proper facilities for her education that he, as a taxpayer, had provided. The matter was referred by the Council to the School Board, which was asked to make its decision on the matter known to the Council.

Convention To Come To Vernon

Union of B.C. Municipalities Accepts Invitation Offered By Mayor Prowse For Next Year's Gathering—His Worship Is Elected Member of Union's Executive—Reports Given Council Meeting Here On Last Week's Convention At Harrison Hot Springs

Next year the annual convention of the Union of B.C. Municipalities is to be held in Vernon. Such was the decision of the convention held at Harrison Hot Springs last week, after Mayor E. W. Prowse, on behalf of this city, had extended a cordial welcome.

His Worship, who was accompanied to Harrison by City Clerk Edwards, is being congratulated on having secured this city as next season's convention site. It will mean the presence in this city, at that time of about 150 important municipal figures from all parts of British Columbia. At that time of the year, moreover, the city will be humming with activity as the seasonal fruit and produce business approaches its peak, and will present an interesting and attractive spectacle to the visitors.

It is interesting to note that the U.B.C.M. convention was held here previously in 1916 and 1926. Next year being 1936 the ten-year cycle will be maintained.

Mayor Prowse was honored by election as one of the executive members of the Union, during last week's sessions.

The meeting of the City Council Monday night here was featured by reports given on the return of the three travellers. Mayor Prowse and City Clerk Edwards reported on the municipal convention, and Alderman Bowman on his trip to England. All reports were heard with great interest by the Council.

Fathered by the Okanagan Mayors and Reeves Association, a resolution requesting that the provincial government pay taxes on reverted S.B.B. lands, was adopted unanimously by the convention.

One of the most important resolutions passed at Harrison was one recommending that municipalities be granted the power to enter the oil and gasoline and kindred products field of business.

This line of wholesale and retail business is the only one in which they are now empowered to compete at the present time.

Of interest to the Okanagan was the proposal that was carried on the floor dealing with mosquito control, making it an offence to let pools of stagnant water accumulate in irrigated districts. This, however, applies only to the control of organized districts.

In reporting on the Good Roads Committee findings, City Clerk Edwards stated that it was resolved that there would be no further appropriations this year for any other use than for the maintenance of existing roads.

Mr. Edwards also reported a very strong representation on the part of coast delegates for a re-distribution of the moneys allocated for hard surfacing, to be based on a per capita basis. This representation was withdrawn after considerable discussion.

Mayor Prowse and Reeve Sunderland, of Coldstream delegate, were both members of the resolutions committee at the U.B.C.M. convention.

TWO KILLED AS TRUCK OVERTURNS

MERRITT, B.C., Monday, Sept. 16.—Two men are dead, and 8 are injured as a result of an accident that occurred when a Department of National Defence truck travelling from Merritt to Spences Bridge, after the men had attended a meeting at the former place, turned over on the road near Merritt.

The dead are J. Michael and W. Lewis from the relief camp at Spences Bridge. The injured were removed to the Nicola Valley Hospital at Merritt. Beverly Kenward, of Kamloops, driver of the truck, was not seriously injured.

Superannuation Situation Draws Council's Fire

The first intimation that the city might be behind in its payments for the municipal superannuation scheme to the extent of nearly $4,000 appeared at the City Council meeting on Monday evening when a letter from the Superannuation Commissioner at Victoria asked the city authorities here to pay $94 as six months' interest on the "debit balance" against Vernon.

As the interest rate is 5 per cent, it was possible to work out the approximate debt.

This communication, the Mayor pointed out with emphasis, came after the Union of B.C. Municipalities' convention. Otherwise, he said, there would have been a storm over the matter last week at Harrison Hot Springs. No other information on the matter had ever before come before the Council.

That the scheme was sound and going steadily behind must be apparent, according to His Worship. Delegates to the Union convention asserted that it must be revised immediately, but it was not known that debit balances were going to be piled up against municipalities. The understanding, as stated in the Act, was that the consolidated revenue to the province stood behind the scheme.

"Once again," states the Mayor, "it appears that the municipalities are going to suffer. But this will not be without a stiff protest. We are taking steps to rally all other municipalities, and a careful investigation of the whole scheme will be demanded."

To Visit Valley

Dr. Archibald Leitch

CHAIRMAN OF THE DOMINION BOARD PLANS TRIP HERE

The exact date when Dr. Archibald Leitch, chairman of the Dominion Marketing Board, will visit the Okanagan, is not yet certain, but it is understood that he may reach the Valley about Sunday. He plans to confer with both the B.C. Tree Fruit Board and the Interior Vegetable Marketing Board, on matters of interest to them, and it is expected will be in Vernon Monday.

Dr. Leitch has been in Vancouver, studying the control plans for the Fraser Valley milk schemes.

FRUIT SALES MEET SUDDEN CHECK AS ORDERS FREEZE UP

United-Farmers-Brokerage Receives Blame, According To One Report Here

Suddenly, out of an almost unclouded sky, the fruit business has become deathly ill. Shippers have been all along reporting excellent demand and good business and then it quit. It quit so badly that on Wednesday the Associated Growers had the lightest day's business since last July and the B.C. Fruit Shippers, so J. E. Montague declares, wish they had gone duck hunting. Other houses have the same experience. So drastic was the stoppage that Messrs. Chambers, Staples and Paul Hayes are enroute to Alberta to find out what has happened to the businesses over which they preside.

One report is that since the United Farmers of Alberta have secured a license as buyers they have gone out

COMMISSION HEARS PROTEST REGARDING GASOLINE PRICES

PENTICTON, B.C., Sept. 19.—The Coal and Petroleum Products Commission, which meets in Vernon today, Thursday, and which met at Kelowna on Wednesday, on Tuesday here was featured by the hearing of protests as regards the difference in gasoline prices prevailing in this district, and those at the Coast. A difference of 9 1/2 cents per gallon was pointed out. Members of the Council held that this was too high a price for the Interior, but members of the Board of Trade seemed of the opinion that it was not excessive.

Another statement offered was that there were too many gas stations in Pentiction. There are now 17, and it was asserted that seven would meet the needs.

GLENMORE RIDER FRACTURES SKULL

John Krohn, of Glenmore, received a fractured leg and Ted Coleman, of Rutland, suffered a fractured skull and concussion of the brain, following an accident in which the motorcycle on which they were riding collided with an automobile on the Glenmore road at Bankhead late Saturday evening. J. M. Peavon, of Police Coupee, was the driver of the motor car, and Mr. Krohn was heading the motorcycle at the time of the head-on collision. Both the injured were rushed to the Kelowna hospital, and are reported to be progressing fairly well.

PRICES SET ON MCINTOSH REDS

Opening prices on the McIntosh crop which will start to roll September 25, have been set as follows by the British Columbia Tree Fruit Board: Fancy, 125 to 150, wrapped, $1.30; Fancy, 113 and larger, wrapped, $1.10; Cee, 150 and larger, wrapped, .90; Cee, 150 and larger, face and fill, .85; No. 3, halved, orchard run, 175 and larger, face and fill, .85. The color requirement of 15 per cent on C Grade McIntosh for domestic market is withdrawn.

Included in the last circular issued by the Board is an order whereby all halated apples marketed must be marked as such on the boxes.

In regard to Grimes Golden it is stipulated that this variety shall not be marketed in Canada unless packed in the following grades: Fancy, wrapped, 150 and larger; Cee, wrapped, 150 and larger, and Cee, face and fill, 150 and larger.

Attorney-General Enters Suit to Restrain M. & M.: Magistrate Dismisses Case

Hearing Set For Next Friday Before Supreme Court Judge At Vancouver

The latest development in the actions affecting the M. & M. Company is that the Attorney-General of the province, the Hon. Gordon Sloan, has entered suit at Vancouver asking for a permanent injunction restraining the firm from marketing.

The Attorney-General is further asking for an interim injunction until the trial on the permanent injunction will be heard, which might not be for several weeks time.

C. W. Morrow, counsel for the shipper in question, reports that the hearing on the interim injunction will be next Friday, in Supreme Court, and in all probability it will be heard by Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald.

On Friday, it is understood, J. R. Nicholson, prominent Coast counsel, will appear for the M. & M., and ask for an adjournment until the following Monday, and at that time Mr. Morrow also plans to be present.

This injunction, Mr. Morrow states, will affect the firm only in so far as vegetables are concerned, the suit of the Attorney-General arising as a result of the case heard here last week in which Magistrate Morley dismissed the charge involving alleged infractions of the Interior Vegetable Marketing Agency's orders.

According to Mr. Morrow, the hearing on the permanent injunction might not be held until five or six weeks' time.

Meanwhile the M. & M. Company has been preparing to launch suit against the Tree Fruit Board, in that it refused to grant it a license to operate at all this season. This suit, according to the firm's counsel, would be for extensive but as yet unstated damages, and as a second feature the firm is also preparing to seek an injunction preventing the Tree Fruit Board from interfering with its operations until this suit can be heard.

These actions, however, will no doubt be deferred until after the outcome of the Attorney-General's suit.

On September 26 the appeal of the company against Magistrate Morley's decision of two weeks ago, on the case involving an information laid by the Tree Fruit Board chairman will be heard before Judge Swanson, and J. R. Nicholson is coming up from Vancouver as counsel with Mr. Morrow.

MacDONALD DECLARES THAT WHOLE M. & M. CASE WILL BE CLOSELY INVESTIGATED

Commenting on the position assumed by the provincial government in the most recent developments concerning the M. & M. case, the Hon. K. C. MacDonald, Minister of Agriculture, declares that, "it is the intention of the province to aid the Dominion authorities and Boards with the determined purpose of achieving stabilized marketing."

At the same time the minister says that every aspect of the situation will be investigated, involving both the actions of the Board and the shipper in question. With Dr. Leitch, head of the Dominion Marketing Board, Dr. MacDonald will confer with the Local Board members at Kelowna next Sunday, "when the whole issue will be thrashed out," he declares.

BOARD PREPARES INTERIM REPORT

Members of the Interior Vegetable Marketing Board are now preparing an interim report on their activities to date, and this should be available for publication next week.

"I think," states Mr. Wilkinson, chairman of the Board, "that when this report is made public, the value this control has been to the industry so far this season will be made abundantly evident."

Morley Acquires Firm on the Grounds That Board's License Was Not Cancelled

Says Vegetable Board Exceeded Authority

Case Featured By Lengthy Argument On Legal Points Involved

Contending that, according to the interpretation of the Natural Products Marketing Act, no Local Board could prevent a shipper from operating until it had definitely proven in what respect that shipper was offending against the marketing rules and regulations laid down, Magistrate William Morley, in Police Court here last Thursday afternoon, dismissed the charge brought against the M. & M. Fruit Company, Ltd.

The charge was that the company unlawfully shipped a car of vegetables through other than the designated agency, the Interior Vegetable Marketing Agency Ltd., on August 26.

T. G. Norris, K.C., who prosecuted, called witnesses to establish that on August 22 the Interior Vegetable Marketing Agency had cancelled the authority of the M. & M. Company as a marketing representative or sub-agency, and that, four days later, a car had been moved by the company to Lloydminster.

A feature of the case was that the fact that such a car was moved was not denied by the allegedly offending company. While technical opposition to much of the prosecution's evidence was offered by C. W. Morrow, defence counsel, he did not avoid the admission that the company had continued to market produce after its sub-agency had been rescinded.

F. C. McKinnon, manager of the company, took the witness stand, and in replying to cross-examination by Mr. Norris, himself did not deny that a car had been despatched to the prairies.

The defence, however, based on several legal contentions, seemed to centre in the argument that the Vegetable Board and its designated agency had exceeded their authority, as granted under the Natural Products Marketing Act, and that the magistrate could therefore not reach a conviction as provided for under Section 14 of the Act.

It was contended by Mr. Morrow, and the point was also stressed by the magistrate in handing down his decision, that the Natural Products Marketing Act in Section 4, Sub-Section (Continued on Page 10, Col. 2)

Howe Reinstated

A. T. Howe was re-instated as a marketing representative by the Interior Vegetable Marketing Agency, Ltd., according to an announcement made on Friday of last week. The marketing of products by and through this sub-agency was declared in order as from that date.

CASES AGAINST GROWERS ADJOURNED UNTIL MONDAY

The cases against two growers, charged with illegally shipping vegetables through a non-authorized agency, the M. & M. Company Ltd., on Wednesday were adjourned by Magistrate Morley until next Monday, the application for adjournment being made by Gordon Lindsay on behalf of T. G. Norris, K.C.

R. L. Maitland, K.C., Joins With Local Member In Analyzing Past Five Years

Combining the calm, deliberate judgement of the Hon. Grote Stirling, Minister of National Defence in the Dominion Government, and member for the constituency of Yale, with the brilliant eloquence of R. L. "Pat" Maitland, K.C., a meeting in the interests of the National Building, on Wednesday evening in this city.

Mr. Stirling first addressed the audience, laying before it in clear, concise manner the many benefits that had accrued to this country during the stewardship of the Conservative party under the leadership of the Hon. R. B. Bennett, and refuting at some length the charge that Mr. Bennett was influenced by the so called "big interests" of St. James Street.

In dealing with results of the Empire Trade Conference at Ottawa, Mr. Stirling explained that it is often alleged by uninformed persons that Canada received the benefits from the agreements made at this conference only at the expense of Great Britain's good will.

In replying to this charge, Mr. Stirling quoted figures showing that there had been a mutual increase in Anglo-Canadian trade, and that Great Britain benefited from these agreements very nearly in the same proportion as did Canada.

"As a direct result of the realization by Mr. Bennett that the agricultural communities needed aid," Mr. Stirling added, "the Natural Products Act was drafted."

Mr. Stirling, in the space of a few remarks, laid wide and led up to the framing of the act, and in passing, declared himself proud to be able to say that as the member for Yale, he had had a hand in drafting of this important measure.

While the Act has been criticized from many sources, Mr. Stirling declared, (Continued on Page 6, Col. 6)

Demand For Lamb

With reference to the increased consumption of lamb in Canada it is interesting to note that it is difficult to gauge the world consumption of lamb and mutton, owing to the absence of official data in several countries. Also, in practically all producing countries many sheep, of which no record is available, are used for home consumption on the farm. New Zealand on an average in recent years has held first place as a consumer of lamb and mutton but her demand fluctuates widely from year to year. Australia, like Canada, is increasing her demand for lamb, which in 1932 was 60 per cent. higher than in 1928. Great Britain's consumption has risen from 29 pounds per head in 1928 to 33 pounds in 1933.

3,000,000 FARMERS CO-OPERATE

More than 3,000,000 farmers participated in agricultural adjustment programs in the United States last year as members of about 4,000 farmer-organized county production control associations. Utilizing the centralizing powers of the Federal Government, these farmers as a group have been able to direct their own adjustments in production, meet the emergency resulting from the drought, and guide the policies under which the Agricultural Adjustment Act is administered.

1,500 Tons of Onions Will Be Exported From Okanagan To New Zealand This Season

Districts Having Geographical Advantage Have Enjoyed Major Share of Trade

It is expected that 1,500 tons of onions will leave the Okanagan for export markets this season.

Already a good volume of this export trade has moved off towards its destination, which is almost entirely to be found in New Zealand.

The Kelowna district has had the lion's share of this trade so far. This is attributed to the fact that in that section the onions mature more rapidly, and the earlier tonnage has a marked advantage in the movement to the Antipodes.

This season, moreover, the growth has been even more delayed than usual, emphasizing the geographical advantages of some areas. Westbank, it is said, has found the situation a great boon this year. Vernon, however, will also have its share.

Good Domestic Outlook

The outlook for the onions is very good, states T. Wilkinson, chairman of the Interior Vegetable Marketing Board, in reference to the domestic prospect. The price is $20 per ton to the producer.

The climatic conditions offered a particular problem on tomatoes. When the demand for the semi-ripe was at its height, much that the Okanagan producers had to offer was green and immature. Many of the shipments resulted in hurting the markets, as a result, and prices and the volume of trade have suffered. Prices made effective Monday quote the four-basket crates at 41 cents to the producer for warehouse pack, and 47 cents for producer pack. Large, wrapped, bring 60 and 61 cents, and unwrapped, 50 and 56 cents.

A substantial movement of potatoes is now under way. On these, the Chairman reports, the outlook is favorable. The Dominion Marketing Board has extended the control powers of the Board over the area including Ashcroft until October 1, the former date having been September 15, and this should prove of great assistance in effecting orderly marketing.

Dr. Letich, chairman of the Dominion Marketing Board, when he visits the Okanagan in a few days, will particularly examine the potato situation, it is reported.

CLOSED PACKAGE DEAL IS FAVORED BY PRAIRIE TRADE

Shippers Here Receive Enthusiastic Messages From Wholesale and Brokers

From many shippers is heard the statement that this season's closed package deal is meeting with a splendid reception throughout the markets on the prairies. The marked success of operations so far is to a large extent attributed to this method of marketing this year, and there is considerable optimism in pointing towards the future.

The following are two letters that have been received by a shipper here, which are said to be typical of many other comments from the trade. The first communication is from a prominent wholesale house at Prince Albert, and is worded:

"We thought it might be well to write you at this time saying that we appreciate the fact that apples are being shipped in closed packages. We are 100 per cent in favor of the method of shipping apples, as at present the pack so far has been very good, and after interviewing the city grade, and also the major portion of the country merchants, the opinion is that they are 100 per cent in favor of the closed packages, and we hope that it will continue."

"As far as the writer personally is concerned, we do not want to see the bulk apples on the market again. We figure that when apples are well grown and well packed, we should get them to the consumer in the same condition, which cannot be done by shipping them in bulk."

The second letter is from a broker at Saskatoon, and is as follows:

"After having talked with most of the trade here about the apple business, so far this season, they state that the present pack is the best that they have ever had, and there has been a good strong demand for apples, exceeding the supply up to the present time. The quality is also much better than they have been used to in the household packages in other years."

$115,000,000 CATTLE PURCHASES

Approximately $115,000,000 was made available in the United States last year for drought cattle purchases, and benefit payments to farmers co-operating in the purchase program. Through the operation of this program, more than 687,000 producers have sold 7,476,503 head of cattle, and have received around $101,475,331 in purchase and "benefit" payments. The benefit payments totaled $37,545,108. These benefit payments were non-assignable and not subject to any liens upon the cattle.

CHARLIE CHAN SEEN IN "PARIS" MYSTERY FILM

Chinese Detectives' Adventures Featured In Double Bill With Young in "Vagabond"

With its setting laid in Paris the Gay, last Charlie Chan film to be released is appropriately entitled "Charlie Chan in Paris," and is seen at the Empire Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 25-26. Charlie Chan, the Chinese-detective whose Oriental philosophy has colored many excellent detective stories, is played as usual by Warner Oland, whose characterization of this part has done much to ensure its popularity. Supported by a capable cast including Mary Brian and Erik Rhodes, Oland moves through a seemingly unsolvable mystery with the calm imperturbability that is his, and chalks up another success to his credit. On the same program is "Vagabond Land," featuring Robert Young and Evelyn Venable in a sparkling modern comedy, that has won high praise wherever shown.

Letters of Interest From Our Readers

Socialism and Christianity

Editor, The Vernon News.

Our civilized world as we know it today is in such a chaotic state, that we are all asking ourselves: "How are we going to get out of this mess? Where is it all going to end?" and a host of similar questions.

We are told that the cause of all our troubles is Capitalism, and that either Socialism or Communism is the only solution, yet it is obvious to most thinking people that a change to either of these, as presented from Socialistic and Communist platforms, can lead but to greater chaos.

One of our main troubles seems to be, that in all branches of life, we have got so involved, that the fundamentals have been forgotten in a maze of complexity. This applies equally to politics, religion, law and all other major issues, which go to make up our so-called modern civilization.

Here again we glibly talk about civilization, after without understanding fully about what we are talking and without getting down to the fundamental of what civilization means.

To many of us, civilization means skyscrapers, 100 M.P.H. automobiles, railroads, street cars, etc., and we therefore consider ourselves more civilized today, when we have these things than, let us say, one hundred years ago, when we did not.

All such things however, are only a means to an end, and not an end in themselves, and it is very questionable whether we may not have retrogressed rather than progressed in our civilization, in spite of all these aids during the last century.

When, figuratively speaking, you, I, and John Smith across the street, are living in greater harmony together, more happily and with a greater feeling of security for the future; then, and not till then, can we rightly say we have advanced along the right path.

It is very questionable, if we are today, taken as a whole, happier, or if we have a feeling of greater security than our forefathers did a century ago, in spite of all these modern inventions, which, instead of making life easier, simpler and surer, seem to have made it more complicated and difficult.

What is the cause of this and how can it be remedied? It must be obvious by this time that it cannot be brought about by legislation. Surely the solution lies very near to home, namely in ourselves.

The changes we need can only be brought about by a change in the individual outlook on life. The so-called Capitalistic System, which at the moment seems to be in its death throes, has arrived where it is, not so much because of the failure of the system, as through the failure of the individual characteristics of selfishness, greed and lust for power, has betrayed the responsibility that he owes to the community at large by virtue of his position, and has used his power solely for his own aggrandizement.

It is only reasonable, to assume that when these men, or call them what you will, of selfishness, greed and lust for power are inherent in the individual, particularly in our leaders in public life, then no matter what "fable" or "fable" government we may put in power, we will be in no way better off than we were before.

The only solution seems to be that each individual one of us should try, and practice, and to our children teach, true socialism. This applies particularly to those, who by virtue of money and position, are in power and control over others.

By true socialism, however, is not meant the socialism of the tub-thumping radicals, whose ideas are often the antithesis of the real thing. True socialism may be considered as almost, if not quite, synonymous with Christianity, and it is not and never can be a political party or organization, a certain ritual, and profess to believe in a God about whom we know very little and think even less. This conception is of course entirely erroneous; Christianity, unlike savage devil dances, is not a ritual at all, but is very definitely a method of living.

We can only by rights call ourselves Christians, if, in our everyday life, we really endeavor in our every action to follow the example laid down for us in the Bible, and obey those fundamental laws, in our associations with our fellow man, laid down for us in the Commandments, the last seven of which, no socialist, even of the tub-thumping variety, could better, if asked to law down some laws for the harmonious existence of society.

If this is so then, the only solution seems to be in ourselves, inasmuch as all of us must try to live a little more unselfishly, a little more simply perhaps, and with a little more consideration for the "other fellow". The chief onset of pulling us out of this mess probably lies, more than they seem to realize themselves, with our preachers, who, forgetting for one their petty differences of ritual, must get down and point the way by teaching a real active sort of Christianity, with its fundamental principles of honesty, unselfishness and decency, which may be summed up shortly in three phrases: "Do unto others as you would that they should do unto you"; "Play the game"; and "Be a sport"; teaching us in our everyday life actively to follow the example of that greatest of all Socialists, after Whom their religion is named.

Let us put our faith then, not in religion, but in ourselves and practical Christianity, we may then optimistically look forward to the time when we will be clear of this morass in which we are all wallowing.

Yours truly,

The Archbishop's Hollyhocks

By E. Cora Hind

If His Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury could be induced to compete in the "Tallest Hollyhock Competition," I am afraid no one else would have a look in. I walked through an avenue of them in the Lambeth Palace gardens and some must have been 15 feet high and flowered for more than half their length.

When His Grace came to Lambeth six years ago there were trees, and grass and shrubs but no flowers. Now the blaze of color is almost dazzling. But the greatest marvel is the hollyhock avenue. Surely there never were so many gathered together in one place before. The avenue winds down the side of the garden and half encloses lawns where the combinations of color are a sheer joy to behold. His Grace has a Scotch gardener whom he brought with him from York, when he accepted the See of Canterbury, and together they have made, what was something of a waste place, blossom as a rose. With the 800-year-old building as a background the scene is beautiful.

Privileged with a trip through the Palace it was fascinating to look at the portraits of the long succession of the men who have held the See. In the centre of one wall of the dining-room over the fireplace is the portrait of Archbishop Laud; truly the only vile face in that stately and saintly company.

Possibly if Laud had gone in for hollyhocks he would have left a more savory reputation behind him. I wonder?

Saskatchewan farmers who have been selling dairy butter at 7 to 10 cents per pound have one advantage. They have the butterfats at home to drink.

A DASTARDLY CRIME

THE Okanagan Valley is getting some undesirable publicity these days. The most flagrant example of this is the prominence given the operations of some poor misguided individual, or individuals, who set fire to two fruit packing houses in the immediate vicinity of Vernon.

Early Sunday morning the packing houses belonging to A. T. Howe and to the John Kidston estate were set ablaze and burned to the ground.

Whatever was in the mind of the poor fool who did this work, it is difficult to say, but in any event there was no clear thinking if his purpose was to inflict monetary loss and to hold up the movement of fruit through these two plants. All he did was to market the plants to the insurance companies and divert the apples from the channels through which they were designed to move, also to the insurance companies loss account. The operations by the A. T. Howe firm will hardly be interfered with.

For this poor purpose the individual put himself in the criminal class and if he escapes the just punishment of his crime, made himself a fugitive from justice for the balance of his days. Never again will he feel the hand of some friend or acquaintance on his shoulder without thinking he is discovered and without experiencing a wave of feeling which will make his life a perfect hell on earth.

If the motive of the fire-bug was simply revenge for some fancied grievance such as dismissal from service or any similar cause, the effect on the man will be the same.

This is the second time in less than ten years that a fire-bug has operated in Vernon district. And the chances are the hunt for this individual will be no more successful than it was on the previous occasion. Arson is a crime exceptionally difficult of proof. There may be moral certainty of guilt but that is very different from proof sufficiently clear to secure conviction. Arrest is not uncommon but conviction is extremely difficult.

There is one certainty and this is that the criminal was not a duck-hunter. Had he been, he would not have chosen the early hours of the first morning of the open season for this purpose because too many sportsmen were about. Before daylight there were travellers on probably every road leading out of Vernon and after a blaze is set a get away must be made, and from what will, in a few moments, be the centre of attraction for many persons.

The suggestion that some organization may be at work is a ridiculous one. Success in matters of this sort and escape from the penalty depend on the secrecy of the operation and the cover of darkness. There may be one person who is willing to undertake the risk but under a mind so shallow would halt at a discussion or a disclosure of such a purpose to the closest companion. Chances of discovery where there is more than one guilty party are much more than doubled.

There is a wave of sympathy for Mr. Howe. Coming as this dastardly attempt does on the top of his recent bereavement, it focusses public attention on his career in the Valley and the many activities in which he has been and still is engaged for the improvement and betterment of the conditions of his fellows.

FOR FREEDOM OF SPEECH

MOST unwholesome and unfair was the attitude of a portion of the number of persons who attended the political meeting in Vancouver at which Hon. Mitchell Hepburn and Ian MacKenzie were billed as speakers. A portion of the crowd refused to permit them to speak.

The supporters of the speaker paid for the hall, for advertising and other expenses and invited the public to attend. Any person who did not wish to listen to the speakers should have refrained from attending. To go and to refuse to permit men who are national figures in Canada to give their addresses, is to deny that freedom of which this country boasts.

It is such tactics as these which make men question the liberty we enjoy. It is an incontrovertible fact that those who countenance such acts are themselves hastening the day when it may be impossible to stretch liberty until it cracks.

Political discussions are numerous in the Okanagan Valley. From now until election day they will be every day affairs. It is hoped that no such incidents will mark the progress of meetings in the Okanagan Valley as have been recorded at Vancouver.

A CHAMPION AMONG CHAMPIONS

FOR years the North Okanagan has held leadership in quality butter production. Therefore the news from Toronto that Vernon and Enderby creameries were both placed in the first prize group at the world's largest annual agricultural fair, the Canadian National Exhibition, was gratifying, alike to urban and rural dwellers in the Valley.

This victory was a repetition of many similar achievements and therefore lacked the thrill of the unexpected. It was none the less gratifying. The success won at Toronto was followed almost immediately by the awarding of five first prizes at the Canada Pacific Exhibition on the opposite side of the continent, at Vancouver. Among the awards won at this latter show was the highest aggregate, emblematic of the championship of the province. This is the third successive victory in this class by the Vernon Creamery.

The winning of an occasional victory by the Okanagan creameries would be productive of more excitement but this evidence of consistent leadership is of more solid benefit to the community.

The successes won by the Vernon and Enderby Creameries is particularly gratifying to The Vernon News. For a decade this newspaper has consistently backed the North Okanagan dairy farmers and their organization. Because of practical experience in the manufacturing end of the creamery business elsewhere in Canada, the publisher of this newspaper was able to envisage the future successes of the Okanagan's embryonic dairy industry and to forecast them with accuracy eight to ten years ago.

Credit for the high standing of the butter making industry in the North Okanagan must be widely diffused. To Edward Clarke the active and energetic manager, who came to the Okanagan Valley ten years ago, must go the chief honors. He saw the possibilities. As he advanced in the science of management, he brought the organization along with him. As he progressed step by step he moved it forward and so did the Board of Directors. They encouraged policies which knit together the producers, the retailers, the public, the men engaged in the manufacture, and the Burns company which supplied the capital for the purchase of the most modern machinery. The whole has been welded into such a voluntary unit as is seldom found in the business world. A glance into the files of The Vernon News and the organization's publication, the Cream Collector, shows the industry steadily forging to the front.

Among the men who milk the cows and their women folk who encourage them to greater effort, were woven strong strands of enthusiasm. A wisely conceived advertising policy which embraced all admittedly successful mediums, welded the public's support for a local product that was continually being improved. Seldom does a farmer's co-operative proceed along a safe highway so wisely and definitely surveyed. Rarer indeed is a farmer's sizeable voluntary organization so thoroughly disciplined by its directors.

This Board of Directors, composed of seven farmers, has wisely left the details of the highly scientific processing methods to trained experts while it attended to the broader affairs of general policy. So wise a Board of Directors, in a farmer's co-operative is quite as rare as the organization which has been set up and operated to the benefit of the whole North Okanagan.

CHARGED WITH UNLAWFUL SHIPMENT

THE charge that the M. & M. Fruit Co., Limited, unlawfully shipped vegetables through other than the designated agency, the Interior Vegetable Marketing Agency, Limited, and its dismissal by Magistrate Morley in Vernon, opens up the whole vista of the marketing legislation under the terms of the Natural Products Marketing Act.

No one can say what the result will be, not necessarily regarding the outcome of the legal proceedings, but as to the effect on the principles of legislation of this sort.

Court action is likely to attract attention to the terms of the Marketing Act in a way that would otherwise be possible. Not even the politicians can focus attention so sharply, nor bring out the strength and weakness of legal enactments with the clarity that naturally follows an action at law. In an action before the courts the brightest legal minds are matched. One purpose is to show the legislation as sound and as a bulwark of a people's liberties. The other purpose is to show it as unfair, as discriminatory, as against the public weal and the common law, or one endeavors to bring out its fantastic features and to show the hardships which may be possible under it. The other attempts to show that only by such means can the liberties and the rights of the common people be retained or established.

It is unfortunate that the legal enforcement of the legislation should have been necessary at this particular time. And yet this could not very well have been avoided if there is to be enforcement of the act. It did not need to take the form that has been given to it, but it would have been unavoidable in one way or another. Apparently there is an intention to challenge the legislation and if there is, an action at law was unavoidable.

Comment on the cases before the courts is impossible as well it should be, but there is a degree of public interest not only in the outcome, but in the value of legislation of this sort, which is likely either to make or mar it. The Marketing Act is very far-reaching in its scope. It is believed this is essential in order to make it of value. In this respect public opinion, which is the basis of all law, is much better informed in this province than in any other, and even here, it may not be ready for measures that are necessary for the protection of those who need it the most—the producers.

ARMSTRONG'S GREAT DAY TO-DAY

THIS is the greatest day of the year in the city of Armstrong. It is wind-up day of the Interior Provincial Exhibition.

On this day, all roads lead to Armstrong and to the wonderful array of exhibits there assembled. As Mat Hussen, the energetic secretary-manager pointed out to the Kinsmen of Vernon, last week, this fair is a survival of a great number that at one time were held in Okanagan Valley centres. It is not the purpose of this article to inquire into the reasons which eventually led to their abandonment, but to point to the excellence of the one that survived and the benefits that accrue to the valley from the continuance of one strong Interior Exhibition.

To be shown at the fair at Armstrong, an animal or a piece of fancy-work, must be of outstanding value. The exhibits at this great show-window of the Okanagan are first class.

Vernon people join with Armstrong and the district round about in gathering en masse to see the splendid entries and the sights at the Interior Provincial Exhibition.

IMPORTANT CONVENTION COMING TO VERNON

CHOICE of Vernon as the meeting place for the Union of British Columbia Municipalities the second time in a decade, indicates the influence the representatives of this municipality have in the council of this most important body. It is also a feather in the cap of Mayor Prowse and City Clerk James Edwards.

So important are the deliberations of this body that the Municipal Commission of the Provincial Legislature gives their recommendations most profound and thoughtful attention. The gathering of a group of 150 of the men from the foremost cities of the province is important to any city. It is also another reason why the citizens of this community must take stock of the situation and take the necessary steps for the erection of an hotel which will be admitted as a representative hostelry for the Okanagan Valley. Businessmen have reasons daily to regret that in this respect Vernon does not occupy the important position it once held. A magnificent financial reward awaits the man or the group of men, who provide this city with a thoroughly modern hostelry.

It costs more to revenge injuries than to bear them

DON FERNANDO

By Somerset Maugham

Reviewed by Margaret Lawrence

THIS is a book for the connoisseur. It is a collection of essays vaguely drawn together by a thread. They need to be drawn together. Somerset Maugham decided when he was young to write a novel about Spain during its golden age in the sixteenth century. He was still deciding to write such a novel many years later. He could not find the character that he wanted. But in the meantime he had lived in Spain and had jelsu slipped of its spirit. His reading, began, as he tells in the opening chapter, with a book given to him by an innkeeper called Don Fernando. Maugham had not wanted the book, but Fernando was determined to give it to him if he could not sell it to him, and at the end it remained the only one of all the antiquities bought by Maugham from Fernando which he had kept over the years. It was an early biography of Loyola. From the episode of the book and how he came into his possession Maugham proceeds to a study of Loyola's teaching. It is one of the best positions I have read anywhere of the psychological finesse of the originator of the Society of Jesus. Maugham himself had a secular mind, but he appreciates artistically the force of the teaching of Loyola concerning the control and the direction of the imagination. Once through the training the Jesuits were able to bear anything with equanimity, and this was the great secret of their amazing missionary journeys and accomplishments. From Loyola he wanders on to the Spanish writers and presents studies of Cervantes and Lope de Vega which are little literary masterpieces of constructive criticism in themselves. After reading them one has quite a good working knowledge of the literature of Spain during the sixteenth century. Out of his literary comments there comes valuable material upon the Spanish language, upon language generally, upon art, and upon history. It shows the mind of Maugham one of the utterly cultivated minds of our time.

From literature he passes on to painting, always one must remember in search of a hero for his novel, and in the progress gives an analysis of the work of El Greco which is profoundly illuminating. Associated with this study are remarks upon the landscape of Spain, and the feeling of the physical aspect of the country, differentiating between Castile and Granada, and Andalusia, which are the thoughtful informative remarks of an observant gentleman who knows his Spain. From the portrait of the painters and the backgrounds they give their figures it is only a step to human character and Maugham lets himself go upon the Spanish character, finding it remarkable dual, on one side fun-loving, passionate, artistic, virile and spontaneous and on the other, dignified almost to the degree of boredom, stiff, unbending, fanatical and serious and extraordinarily ceremonious. He leaves character and comes to mysticism, that abiding interest of Spaniards, and he includes in this part of the book a commentary upon Saint Teresa of Avila which is a beautiful study of the saint. But never through all his searching was he able to find the character he wanted for his novel. He had spent years of study and three years of writing. It was Spain of the golden era that had captured him and no individual. He wandered through portrait galleries seeking a face; he worked through the literature hunting for a character; he went here and there through the country feeling its glamor and learning to know it well, but always in vain for his particular purpose. But out of it came a collection of essays which is a literary achievement and one of the most interesting of all Maugham's books. Personally I enjoyed it even more than the exquisite short stories, because the essay is a form that leaves the writer free, and Maugham's deft mind with all its interesting turnings has a chance to express itself as it does not have in the story form. It is quite easy to see why the Golden Age in Spain attracted him—the Spaniards were intriguing people in that age, much greater in themselves than in their literature, a secularly minded folk with a passion for the undisciplined, holding to mysticism, but holding to it very lightly, historic, and much given to magnificence, but in themselves inwardly never allowing their feet off the solid earth. It is much like Maugham, the Spanish character of the sixteenth century, affable, cultivated, full of gestures, and at the same time intensely susceptible to the ultimate simplicity of things.

REMARKABLE TIE-UP IN BASEBALL PENNANT RACE

VERNON, Penticton, and Oroville baseball teams are in a remarkable tie-up. These teams in the pennant race ousted Kelowna, Peachland, Summerland and Oliver and went into a round robin play-off so as to avoid the drain on the club which should have to fight for a place without a home game to help with finances. In this series of jousts, Vernon defeated Oroville, Penticton beat Vernon but lost to Oroville.

The season is over so far as assured good weather goes and many of the players are finding it difficult to get time off to play. It has been decided, however, to hold a play-off at Penticton next Sunday and immediately declare a champion for the season.

Perhaps it would be just as well to agree that there is so little difference between the teams that a sudden death battle is not in the best interests of baseball. As it now stands there are three centres which fondly believe their team is the best. And they all have reason for that belief.

A NEW ORGANIZATION OF SHIPPERS

AN important movement in the marketing of Okanagan Valley fruits and vegetables is the incorporation of the Okanagan Federated Shippers Association. The objects of the new shippers' organization, as given in the British Columbia Gazette, were published last week. It is hoped they were carefully noted.

Practically all of the larger shipping organizations are banded together in the federation and for very worthy objects. There is a need for such an organization, though it is just one more that is pyramided on the backs of the industry. It is capable of being of the greatest assistance and for so long as it busies itself with matters like freight rates, claims, etc., its existence is all to the good.

No grower need be reminded, once he has studied the situation, that the new body is capable of exercising a great influence for the good of either the industry or a portion of it.

Boxla Is a Great Game

Are you fond of watching athletic teams in competition? If you are and have not seen a boxla game as played at Vancouver, you are missing something.

A short time ago a group of men from Vernon were in Vancouver, some on business and others on holiday. The question arose, where would we go, what would we do in the evening? The answer came down from the C.N.R. train an old friend had said to me, "Bill, if you are in Vancouver and have the evening free, do not fail to go and see the boxla game between the Indians and Richmond." When the question arose of the evening's entertainment as we sat in the comfort of my room in the Vancouver Hotel, I suggested the lacrosse game.

There was a chorus of assent and one voice raised in objection. "You can't get a ticket to a lacrosse game at this time," I thought I knew a way around that and asked how it would be if I should phone Bob Elson, sporting editor of The Province, and see what he could do. There was agreement and Bob said he would fix it. Pretty soon his voice said over the phone, "the management will be pleased to have you as guests." So that is how it comes that we went to see our first boxla match.

Being hockey fans when at home in Vernon, we hoped to see a game that would be interesting. We were not disappointed.

When we arrived, the arena was not crowded because no one can say that 6,000 or so fans could crowd that building. However, there were there, as we found our way to a central box, a howling crowd. The game had started. It took us a few minutes to get our bearings with the interpretation of a devout fan.

On a wooden floor, painted green, circled 16 men, seven of them in the red uniforms fancied by Richmond and seven in the Indians' green. Two men in white seemed to follow them about. There was a white ball and was it travelling? Because in the dim and distant past I played lacrosse, I thought I would know something about it, but I instantly found that each one of the shouting mob was better acquainted with the game than I.

The old game of lacrosse suffered from a spectator's standpoint, from lack of exciting action. Not so boxla. There were no long runs, no waits for the ball to be returned within bounds, no distant plays you could not follow. Right in front of your eyes, 14 players followed the ball with steady purpose and fierce intent. They passed, ran and shot with a deadly accuracy and all the while the spectators saw greater motion, were able, at least some of them, to see the plays coming up and at times were on their feet shouting in anticipation of the score. I have seen a lot of athletes in action. I never have been so thrilled and I did not know a single player. There were no fights, nothing but the most exciting action. It was even a better game to watch than hockey because of greater contact, more proficiency. And it is more popular with women than with men, at least there appeared to be more spectators of that sex.

Tariff Pact In Prospect

Hepburn Invades The West

Aberhart Is Reassuring

War Hurts Financial Field

B.C. To Vote On Beer?

Trade experts in Canada and the United States have made tentative arrangements for a tariff reciprocity pact whereby certain commodities, the most important of which has not been divulged, will cross the 49th parallel under a greatly reduced tariff basis, according to dispatches from Ottawa. The Hon. W. D. Herridge, Dominion Minister to the United States, has been most active in promoting this agreement, and it is estimated that a speedy settlement of the fine points of the pact will be made. It has been learned that among the Canadian exports affected would be newsprint, pulp, chemicals, furs and asbestos, while some of the imports to come under the new tariffs will be machinery, oils and gasoline, automobile parts, cottons, and printed matter.

Campaigning for the forthcoming federal election in the interests of the Liberal party, Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario, opened his Western drive in British Columbia last week, speaking in Kamloops, Victoria, Vancouver, North Vancouver and New Westminster. Eager crowds testified to the curiosity that Western Canada holds regarding this young political scion, and the fact that he is only 39 is one of the most talked about figures in Canadian politics. Stating himself to be solidly behind the Liberal party, Mr. Hepburn proceeded, in the face of the considerable interruption that occurred at all of his meetings, to define the Liberal stand, and to point out alleged faults in the Conservative Federal policy, as outlined by Prime Minister Bennett. Such seems to be the personal charm of Mr. Hepburn that reports from all of meetings indicate that through sheer force of personality, he won over hostile audiences to more or less sympathy.

Hon. William Aberhart, Premier of Alberta, has given a definite statement to the press as to the economic soundness of Social Credit, stating that there was no question as to its future success in Alberta. Denying the fact that he would immediately busy himself in promoting Social Credit in the other Western provinces, he stated that they would have to start out on their own, inasmuch as he would be fully occupied with the problems of his own province for a considerable time. Making clear the position of his government on one or two highly controversial questions, Mr. Aberhart said that his scheme involved no repudiation of public or private debts, and that there would be no confiscation of property. Denying that the method to be used in attaining his aims, he said that the people of Alberta and of Canada need be under no apprehension in that direction, as only constitutional means, in accordance with the best traditions of Canadian government, would be used.

The threat of war that is hanging over the world at the present time is having its effect on Canada, just as it is on every other country in the world. The 114 million dollar refinancing plan of the Dominion Government, originally scheduled for completion on October 1, is marking time for the next few weeks, according to Ottawa dispatches because of the uncertainty of the world money markets. The threat of war makes long term bonds extremely hard to market, and it is intimated that even the shorter term securities may be rather more difficult than usual to dispose of. The English market is particularly unstable owing to the war threat, the recent election of the Social Credit Party in Alberta, and the forthcoming Dominion election. It is not estimated, however, that there will be any serious difficulty in financing the plan.

Possibility of a province-wide plebiscite on the sale of beer and wine in public dining-rooms during the fall or early winter—emerged at the Legislative Buildings at Victoria at the government considered a monster petition from Victoria in favor of Quebec liquor system last week. That the government was seriously considering a provincial vote on this question was clear, though the Victoria petition of 13,000 names out of a voters' list of 10,000 asks only for beer and wine there. The petitioners contend that the government has the power to sell beer and wine in public dining-rooms without new legislation, and the government is not sure that it does not possess this authority under the existing law. But there is no possibility of this change in the whole basis of the present liquor system without the question going to the Legislature.

Labor Minister Gordon last week made public figures showing heads of families on relief throughout Canada, and issued a statement saying that despite a decrease in the figures there had been an alarming and altogether disproportionate increase in relief costs in some provinces. The figures, the statement said, indicate a net decrease of 8.21 per cent. of the total number receiving direct relief in August compared with July, but they indicated the continued disposition on the part of the majority of the provinces to emphasize, if indeed not to magnify, to the Dominion their difficulties in this regard.

Meeting gains and losses with philosophical unconcern, and pursuing aggressive sales policies in home and world markets, British Columbia's lumber industry will give an excellent account of itself this year, it was forecast yesterday in provincial circles. Echoes of the much discussed three-million dollar bridge at New Westminster were heard when officials of the Canadian National and Victoria Northern Railways gathered in Victoria last week to discuss with Premier Pattullo the future use of the present structure. Officials of the railroads in question and of the British Columbia Electric Railway have been notified that their use of the existing bridge as a crossing of the Fraser River at that point will terminate in the autumn of 1939, after which date other arrangements will have to be made.

SEASON STARTS ON DUCKS, GROUSE, AND DEER HERE

Good Bags of Ducks Reported But Other Game As Yet Open Appears Rather Scarce

Early morning hours on Sunday, Sept. 15, saw most of the Vernon and district sportsmen well afield, in varying pursuit of ducks, blue grouse or deer. Reports from hunting parties would indicate the ducks were by far the most popular game on the opening day, and that bags were consistently good in this connection. The Indian Reservation proved deservedly popular in this connection. Grouse also had their devotees, but reports on these would indicate that there is considerable shortage of this fine game bird in this district. Few hunters went after the wily buck so early in the season, but several who did so were successful. One hunter in the Coldstream bagged a nice one within an hour after setting out. Reports from the southern portion of the Okanagan indicate much the same conditions there as here, with ducks fairly plentiful, blue grouse scarce, and deer hunting not yet of interest to many hunters. The general success of the opening day has not been duplicated on succeeding shoots but it is indicated that a little later in the season Vernon hunters may expect excellent sport. Particularly popular is the newly opened up public territory on the Indian Reserve which may be shot over by permit holders.

Life of The Oyster

The curator of the aquarium at the London Zoo is astonished to find how little people know about that luscious bivalve the oyster. So with the aid of Dr. Orton, head of the British Government Survey at Plymouth, he writes a romantic biography in The Observer, of London.

"The oyster starts its life as a free-swimming organism, keeping itself afloat and moving in the water for about a fortnight by means of the cilia, its fairy-like paddles, in energetic motion. Gradually its developing shell becomes heavier, the weight becomes too much even for its most strenuous efforts, and it sinks to the bottom or until it touches some solid object. "On its luck, for one can describe it in no other fashion, at this stage depending its future existence. Landing on mud or soft sand, its doom is sealed and many millions of oysters in this fashion perish annually. If it alights even in a hard but slime-covered object, it has but little more chance. Its real hope under natural conditions is to strike hard, clean rock, and the oyster cultivator, knowing this, puts down at the right time of year, the high Summer—clean old shells, clean slate, or, perhaps best of all, tiles coated with lime and sand.

American Experts' Ways "For cheapness and for ease of detachment of the developing oysters, the American experts have lately used the rectangular cardboard egg holders from egg boxes similarly coated with lime and sand. "Once settled, the oyster has literally nothing to do but eat and grow. Its one occupation in life is to strain gallon after gallon of water through its filtering mechanism, which retains the minute food organisms and passes them on into the mouth of the animal.

"Its one protection against its enemies is its hard shell and the ability to keep the two halves firmly closed by the adductor muscle. Crabs, however, can break it open. Starfish may either pull the shell apart, or by means of a convenient arrangement, when the oyster is too big and strong for this operation, and equally too big to swallow, they may evert the stomach and engulf the unfortunate oyster, until at last, compelled to open its shells for fresh supplies of oxygen, it is attacked, weakened, and finally destroyed by the digestive juices.

"Certain boring molluscs may also attack and destroy it, some sponges may reduce the shell to a honeycombed mass, or it may be overwhelmed and starved to death by the slipper limpet, which has been imported by accident with oysters from the United States. "In its second summer the oyster reaches maturity, and it is with the investigation of this period of its life that Dr. Orton has been chiefly associated. The oyster is bi-sexual; but any one oyster does not belong to one sex throughout its life.

Transformation of Sex "At first maturity the oyster functions as a male. Within six weeks of that time it may be a female, carrying a full complement of developing embryos. When these last are ready for the free swimming stage they are discharged into the water, and the parent, its duty done, again becomes a male and goes into a resting stage from which it will not emerge until the following Summer, or, possibly, a year later than that, when the cycle is again repeated.

"Unlike the eggs of most fish, the eggs of the oyster are fertilized within the body of the parent, where they are retained until the developing embryos, of which there may be a million or more, have actually reached the form of small oysters. They are not, however, immediately extruded into the water, but first spend an intermediate existence in the mantle cavity of the parent, where they may continue to develop actually in water, but under fully protected conditions.

"At first, unless examined under the microscope, they resemble a milky fluid, and to those in the trade the oyster is then known as 'white silk.' As the shell develops, the mucus becomes grey, and then dark, when the parent oyster is described as 'black silk.' At the end of this stage the young oysters are literally blown into the water, thereafter to fend for themselves."

DESERTED WIFE APPEALS TO COURT AT PENTICTON

A charge involving desertion under the Deserted Wives Maintenance Act, brought by Mrs. Rose Chenig against her husband, Henry Chenig, was dismissed in Penticton on Tuesday of last week after a hearing in closed court.

A gain of between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 in the value of British Columbia lumber and timber products for the year is unofficially anticipated, if the performance of the first seven months be maintained until the end of the year. An increase of $5,000,000 this year would place British Columbia lumber and its products once again in the lead of the basic industries of the Province.

King Victor Emmanuel Gets a Word in at the Manoeuvres

This remarkable photograph, taken high in the Italian Alps during the greatest peace-time army manoeuvres ever held in Europe, involving 500,000 men, shows King Victor Emmanuel, left, conferring with Premier Mussolini while cabinet members in uniform look on. The manoeuvres in which a theoretical attack by Germany, across Austria was repulsed, were considered a warning to Hitler to do nothing toward Austro-German reunion while Italy is involved in Ethiopia.

Many Criticisms Offered To Provincial Health Insurance At Sessions Held In Vernon

Dr. H. M. Cassidy, of Victoria, Hears Reactions of Interested Local People

A general reluctance on the part of representative Vernon citizens to support the plan for Health Insurance as drafted at present by the Provincial Government for this province, although the general idea of health insurance was heartily endorsed, was shown at the two meetings held in this connection on Tuesday, and conducted by Dr. H. M. Cassidy, member of the hearings committee appointed by the Government to hear the views and suggestions in regard to the proposed scheme.

In general outline, the present scheme, as described by Dr. Cassidy at a semi-formal meeting in the Vernon Court House, Tuesday afternoon, provides that all wage earners, whose salaries are less than $200 per month, shall pay a sliding percentage of their income into this fund, and the employer shall do likewise, it being stipulated that the maximum amount shall not be greater than 3 per cent in the case of the employee, and not greater than 2 per cent in the case of the employer.

Benefits Explained In return for this, the insured person, and his beneficiaries, are to receive cash and medical benefits. The medical benefits will consist of the service of any doctor that the patient may personally decide on, and this will include maternity service, a complete hospital service free for a period up to 21 days, and after that 75 per cent service for a period of 10 weeks, 75 per cent of all drugs required, a partial home nursing service, and a partial dental service, designed principally for school children. In summary, therefore, the scheme would provide, on an average, for 75 per cent of the entire medical services required by the average family.

The meeting in the Court House was featured by the points presented by Magistrate W. Mackey, Alderman E. B. Townrow and Horace Galbraith.

Suggests Income Basis Magistrate Mackey felt, and in this contention he was upheld by a great many of the later speakers, that a fixed rate on a limited section of the incomes of the province was not suitable, and he advocated that a rate of taxation based on the incomes of all wage earners in the province, with the possible exception of those earning a bare living wage, should be made. Alderman Townrow, as a representative of the Workmen of the World, raised the question as to what treatment could be expected for various organizations who had already instituted their own, practical sickness and accident policies. In reply to this, Dr. Cassidy explained that it was the intention of the Government to exempt from this Health Insurance Act members of any organization which provided for an equal amount of money benefits equal or greater than those provided by the Government plan.

Points Out Overlapping Mr. Galbraith raised the point as to possible overlapping between the Health Insurance plan and the Workmen's Compensation Board. Dr. Cassidy explained that the Health Insurance scheme does not provide for industrial accidents covered by the Workmen's Compensation Board, and there is no intention to interfere with the Board. In this connection it was pointed out by Mr. Galbraith that this would necessitate two dues being paid, and a man would, in reality, only be receiving one benefit for two contributions paid in.

The informal meeting of Tuesday evening, held in the Board of Trade rooms in the City Hall, was opened by a general review of the background of Health Insurance work in Canada, by Dr. Cassidy, in which it was explained that two Royal Commissions have reported in favor of a plan of this sort, and various governments, including the one in power at Victoria at the present time, have carried Health Insurance as a platform plank.

Would Wages Be Cut? H. K. Bearlto opened the questioning at this meeting with several pertinent queries that, to a great measure, reflected the general tone of the questions of the entire assembly. Principal consideration was given to the danger that if such a scheme were put into effect in British Columbia, there would be a tendency for employers to cut wages to a degree that would make up their increased taxation under the plan. In addition to this, there would, in all probability, be a great reluctance for employers to increase their wages, when it would also mean a considerable increase in taxation. Mr. Bearlto pointed out, and in this he was later supported by T. R. Bulman, and other speakers, that if a similar scheme were not introduced into all of Canada, B.C. industry, already heavily taxed, would have to bear an additional burden, and at the same time compete with firms engaged in similar lines in Eastern Canada, where such a levy was not made.

Municipal Viewpoint Mayor Prowse, speaking on the municipal viewpoint explained that the municipalities were, with just cause, extremely nervous regarding any further experiments in social service in this province, citing the superannuation scheme as a case in point wherein the municipalities have been saddled with an excessive burden through no fault of their own. Mayor Prowse went on to take exception to a portion of the Act wherein it is stated that if a member disobeys the orders of the commission in charge of the plan, then he forfeits his rights to the benefits. Mayor Prowse explained that there is considerable difference of opinion in regard to such controversial questions as vaccinations, etc., and this would place a very arbitrary power in the hands of the commission. Dr. Cassidy explained that such was not the intention of this clause, and he felt sure that every discretion would be observed by the committee in charge.

It was explained that the plan was to be administered by a commission of five men, three of whom were to be government employees, permanently appointed, and these men were to receive no additional remuneration for their services. The other two were to be appointed from outside the ranks of the government, and their remuneration was to be set by the government.

Danger of Increased Rates Franklin Valour made the point that there would be a very real danger of a heavy increase in the proposed rates of assessment set at the beginning of each year, in spite of the fact that a limit of 3 and 2 per cent had been set. He explained that if, as in the case of the Workmen's Compensation Board, it was found there were insufficient funds to carry on the work, an appeal to the people for a sacrifice would be necessary, and in this manner the rates could be raised to a high level.

In conclusion, a vote of thanks was tendered Dr. Cassidy by Mayor Prowse for his painstaking attention and patience in explaining the proposed scheme, and it was decided that it would be most appropriate if all those in attendance took such action in regard to the scheme as they themselves, or the organizations they represented, felt suitable.

KALAMALKA MINE IS VERY ACTIVE

Activity at the Kalamalka Mine, Lavington, goes on apace, considerable progress having been made towards developing this property into a producing mine.

Some machinery has been taken in, accommodation for a large number of men provided, a mineral bin, constructed of logs, has been built in a convenient location, and an excellent private road has been constructed. Indications are such as to create confidence in the future of the mine.

SWEET GHERKIN PICKLES

Put small gherkins in brine for two days. Use two tablespoons salt to one quart water for the brine. Wash and wipe the gherkins. Pack the gherkins into sealers. Boil four cups white vinegar with six cups sugar and add one tablespoon whole spice. Pour over the gherkins and seal.

WOULD MAKE ORCHARDS EXEMPT FROM TAXATION

For some time the question of taxation of woodlots, forestry stations and fruit orchards has claimed attention. The matter came up for discussion again at the annual banquet of the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce. The debate was precipitated by a resolution of the Norfolk Fruit Growers' Association. The sponsor of the resolution contended that "an orchard is not real property and, therefore, should not be assessable; if of no use as security for a loan, nor is it insurable."

The man who grows trees is penalized, while the man who raises cattle goes free as far as a tax on the animals is concerned. He favored, therefore, the exemption from taxation of fruit orchards, woodlots and forestry plantations and the necessary revision of the Assessment Act to provide for this. The principle was unanimously approved.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

B.C. swine industry is booming and prospects for the future are brighter than ever, is the opinion of F. H. Moore, Superintendent of Colony Farm.

H. POUT DECLARES THAT CANADIANS ARE OPTIMISTIC

Hudson's Bay Manager Here Returns From Interesting Trip Across Continent

Conditions everywhere in Canada, with the possible exception of the Maritimes, give reason for an optimistic outlook, according to H. Pout, manager of the Hudson's Bay departmental store of this city, who has just returned from an interesting trip across the continent, accompanied by Mrs. Pout.

Industrial centres all reveal a greatly improved tone, Mr. Pout reports. There is decidedly a better feeling in the air, and an atmosphere of confidence is replacing the uncertainty and distress of the depression period. Many firms show a marked expansion in business and others are planning to enlarge their programs of production in the immediate future.

On the prairies the general prospects seem to be good, according to Mr. Pout. It is true that rust has wrought some havoc, and drought has injured some sections, "but we should not forget that this is a big country," he says, "and while various sections have suffered, there are immense tracts with good crops on hand."

Only in the Maritimes did Mr. Pout find a somewhat backward situation. At St. John, N.B., where Mrs. Pout and he were married, and where they resided for a considerable period, it was interesting to observe what changes have been made. Apparently that area of Canada has lost in population, rather than having made progress, and the general attitude and outlook of business is a narrow one.

Few Men Control Capital It is the claim of many in the Maritimes, according to Mr. Pout, that too much capital is tied up in the control of a few men, who are unprogressive, and unwilling to embark upon new undertakings.

Mr. and Mrs. Pout very capably combined business and pleasure on their extended journey. They saw many friends in all the centres they visited, found particular pleasure in a trip to the Niagara Falls district, where they crossed over to the American side, and enjoyed the many features of that vicinity.

Stand by Canada!

WHILE THE WORLD WAS SICK CANADA'S EXPORTS TO THE EMPIRE JUMPED 100% AND THOSE TO ALL MARKETS, INCLUDING FOREIGN, 39%

When the King Government was voted out by the people in 1930, Canada stood on the brink of ruin. Our national debt had soared to sickening proportions. Ruinous tariff barriers had been raised against our exports while the King policy of "Laissez Faire" allowed other countries to dump surplus goods on the Canadian home markets. Our adverse trade balance was alarming. Canada was in worse condition than she has ever been before or since and the world-wide depression was just beginning.

NO CANADIAN GOVERNMENT EVER FACED THE COLOSSAL TASK WHICH CONFRONTED THE BENNETT GOVERNMENT. NO OTHER LEADER COULD HAVE TRIUMPHED!

Earnest, wise, resolute—placing the weal of Canada above the petty exigencies of party politics—the Bennett Government forged a new, a safer, saner Canada on the anvil of depression.

CONTROLLABLE EXPENDITURE PARED TO THE BONE

Expenses had to be cut and they were cut — ruthlessly — yet without impairing Government services. Former extravagances were jettisoned. Between 1930 and 1935 controllable expenditure has been reduced 29%. Capital expenditure (railways, canals and public works) has been reduced 77%. Maturing debt was refunded at lower interest rates — saving more than $16,500,000 annually. Today's national budget is actually balanced on ordinary account with a substantial surplus.

Some Facts and Figures of Results Achieved by the Bennett Government

Exports to Empire Markets up 100% since 1932.
Exports to non-Empire Markets up 28% since 1932.
Our position in the British Market (1934 statistics):—
FIRST in wheat sales, oats, wheat flour, apples, copper ore and aluminium.
SECOND in live cattle, bacon, cheese, undressed hides and newspaper.

As a result, between 1933 and 1935 Canadian exports to Empire countries (other than Great Britain) increased by over 100%. Exports to Great Britain increased by 100%, to Australia by 159%, to South Africa by 200%, to New Zealand by 100%, to India by 71% and to the Irish Free State by 82%. And during the same period, Canada's exports to non-Empire countries gained by more than 26%.

When the King Government were voted out of office, Canada had an ADVERSE TRADE BALANCE OF $103,000,000.

Five years of Bennett Government has resulted in a FAVOURABLE TRADE BALANCE OF $152,000,000.

The time is approaching when you will be called on to choose between continuance of sound, safe leadership toward prosperity on the one hand and vacillating weakness, experimental nostrums and disgruntled politicians on the other. You pay for government. Buy wisely!

YOUNG LIBERALS WILL JOIN WITH CANDIDATE HERE

Charles Oliver To Speak At Meeting In This City Next Monday Evening.

Charles E. Oliver, Liberal candidate in this riding, will be heard for the first time in the present campaign by a Vernon audience when he speaks at the Scout Hall here next Monday evening.

A feature of the meeting will be the presence of three leaders of the Young Liberal group from Vancouver. They are Lyle Munn, the President; Alan Campbell, Secretary; and Jack Stirling. These young men have been touring the interior, and while here, next Monday afternoon, they will hold a round-table conference with members of the party of this city.

Mayor G. G. McGeer, of Vancouver, it is reported, will be touring the Okanagan early in October. He is the Liberal candidate in Vancouver-Burrard and will speak while in the valley in the interests of Mr. Oliver. The tentative schedule provides for him being in Vernon on October 1, in Kelowna on October 2, and at Penticton on October 3.

The snake, about four feet long, was found on a city street on Monday afternoon, and was captured with the aid of a wire snare, and then imprisoned in a box. It is the intention to turn the snake over to the circus this week at the Armstrong Fair.

SHOWS FILMS ON LIFE OF FORESTS

Travelling under the auspices of the B.C. branch of the Canadian Forestry Association, and spreading the gospel of forest protection throughout the entire province, J. Brannan, youthful showman and lecturer, was a visitor in Vernon on Thursday and Friday of last week. A picture show dealing with the preservation of wild life, and the prevention of forest fires, was given at the Scout Hall on Thursday night, and was much appreciated by an enthusiastic audience.

FRUIT SALES MEET SUDDEN CHECK AS ORDERS FREEZE UP

to sell the small store trade and the recognized jobbing houses swear they can't sell a thing and they have ceased trying. Anyhow, the flow of orders from Alberta stopped so suddenly that it was decided a deputation must find out why and the members are on the way. Alberta is not the only spot where there is trouble. In Saskatchewan and Manitoba there is also plenty of grief. Additions have been made to the original list of approved brokers and trouble has been breaking out here and there until the selling agencies want to know what it is all about.

To add to the upset on the Prairie market the Alberta jobbers jobbers have ordered largely from Creston and Grand Forks.

One Bright Spot
The one bright spot in an exceedingly dull outlook is the export market. Buyers over "the pond" do not quit because some outfit may be chiselling. Neither do they shy off just before the Macs begin to roll. They want apples coming in a steady stream.

Contrary to general opinion the Westcoast is not nearly done. Vernon and Salmon Arm have plenty. Some Southern locations may be cleaned but there is a lot of these apples to go, a very great many in the districts where they grow to perfection.

Demand for prunes has fallen away. The Prairie housewives have been buying prunes from Washington. More than 30 cars of Washington peaches have moved into southern Alberta points recently. Prices have been as low as a dollar a crate on the Calgary market. These have been for extra large sizes but the effect has been a bonanza down all among the line. The result is that American fruit is going into jars that might otherwise have been filled by Canadian prunes.

Cants Cleaning Up
Oliver is pretty well cleaned up in cantaloupes. Some are now coming out of Summerland and other points farther north.

Grapes have started to roll and will soon reach volume. There is a large crop of excellent quality.

Cukes are cleaning up. And so are tomatoes. Those picked green rot before they ripen and those picked ripe do not arrive in such good condition. Onions are a good crop. The growers gave them extra attention this year and the crop shows it. The onions are dry and ready. The Vegetable Board has set a price of $15 the ton to the growers and the shippers can do what they like about it. The result is that a lot of stuff is cleaning up and the crop will soon be down to fair marketing proportions.

Two Packing Houses Burned to Ground by Incendiary Flames

outrage was aimed particularly against Mr. Howe. His plant was in full swing, while the other packing house was virtually idle, apart from some work that had been carried on there on prunes and crabapples.

It must have been realized, though, that Mr. Howe could have transferred his crop to the nearby packing house, and in order to cripple his activities further it was evidently decided, in the plot, to place the Klidston place out of operation also.

Mr. Howe, however, is not as severely affected as might be expected. Following the news of the fire came whole-hearted offers of assistance from other shippers of the district. E. J. Chambers was almost immediately on the scene, and he was one of those who generously offered to assist, and as a result, in the interim, a portion of Mr. Howe's crop has been handled through the Vernon Fruit Union.

The well-known grower-shipper of the Coldstream has gone one step further, moreover, and has already completed plans for the erection of another packing plant. Equipment has been ordered, and day labor has been engaged to build another temporary structure immediately on the old site. Mr. Howe says that he may be operating on his own again by next Monday or Tuesday. And by next season according to his present intentions, he will build a new and permanent plant in a more suitable location beside the creek.

Plans regarding the rebuilding of the Klidston plant have not yet been decided on, it is explained.

A group to suffer temporarily has been the employees. About one hundred were engaged in the packing and picking work, and though the packing has continued, those on the payroll found themselves out of jobs as this week started.

Green Roadster Seen
Monday found the provincial police at work on various clues offered. A green roadster, seen by Cecil Johnston as he passed the Howe premises for his early morning shooting, for some time figured prominently in the situation. Mr. Johnston stated that he noticed this car, which he described as green and very dirty, parked on the left side of the road, facing towards Kalamalka Lake, and slightly north of the packing house, that is, on the Vernon side. The car was later removed from the police calculations.

Mr. Johnston passed the place of the fire before 4 o'clock, about half an hour before the blaze was noticed. Shortly after 4 o'clock, however, also on his way to some shooting, John Hunter went past on his bicycle, and at that time, he states, there was no car at all in the Howe neighborhood.

And since a considerable period was then to elapse before the fire broke out, it is unlikely that the car in question was involved.

Police seem to hold the view that the car was perhaps that of another early hunter. Other clues that they tracked down, indeed, regarding some "suspicious" cars, merely resulted in the questioning of men out for their first try at the ducks this season.

The blaze was first reported by John Sonogata, state the police. He was another of the many hunters out at that time.

Actual clues, therefore, seem to be missing, and as a result speculation is resorted to.

Rumors, which unfortunately gained considerable strength as a result of treatment of the news episode in daily newspapers, tended to associate the blaze with factions in marketing operations. This, however, is an altogether remote possibility and has received practically no credence in this district where the situation is known.

Just what motivated the perpetrator of the blaze is, of course, unknown. It may be assumed that he knew the Howe plant to a certain extent, as borne out by the use of the gasoline. It was also a calculating plot, in that it involved the elimination of the two packing plants. Police Sergeant Thomson says that he does not think a "fire-bug" or pyromaniac was at work, in the light of his experience in these matters.

No Factionalism
But whoever the incendiary was, any suggestion that the action was a gesture involving any form of organized factionalism is so completely incredible as to be branded as absurd and laughable.

Mr. Howe at times has taken a stand at variance with others on the marketing policies of the valley, but no such a situation has arisen as to make this theory tenable.

Also of significance is the fact that as soon as Mr. Howe's plight was known, offers of assistance and gestures of sympathy poured in from every section of the fruit industry, co-operative, independent, shipper, producer and workman, alike.

Attention has been drawn by some observers to the fact that the Belgian Orchards plant was burned down some time ago. Another fire, also apparently of incendiary origin, consumed the curling rink here, and this may have been an indirect attempt to fire the Vernon Fruit Union at the time, for its roof caught ablaze at several points, and it was saved with difficulty.

This might indicate that there is some sort of fanatical fire-bug in the district who occasionally breaks forth in an attack against packing houses, co-op and independent alike.

There are others who are reminded of the burning of the All Saints Church in the fall several years ago. This also was held by many to have been an incendiary outbreak, and everywhere is heard an expression of the hope that if these fires are the work of one perverted culprit, that he may be apprehended with despatch, or that if it is some fanatic actuated in a spirit of revenge for some fancied wrong, that he may be just as quickly brought to justice.

STIRLING GIVES OUTLINE OF THE BENNETT POLICIES

clared it is significant to note that since this Act was passed, 45 individual schemes have been presented to the Government, no less than 25 of which are in operation at the present time, handling a total volume of approximately 50 million dollars. Mr. Stirling said it was quite within the bounds of possibility that, in the course of time, certain amendments would be found necessary.

If, as and when these amendments are found expedient, it is, in Mr. Stirling's opinion, absolutely essential that the men who have had a hand in framing the Act have the making of the amendments. This can only be done if the Conservative party is returned to power, he stated.

"Canada must not, and dare not, risk her credit as long as she has debts to pay," asserted the speaker.

The work that has been accomplished in regard to reducing the rates of interest, and thereby adding the farmers of Canada to pay off the mortgages that have been held on their properties, was dealt with in detail. The very fact that slashing reductions in the interest rates have been made without seriously disrupting Canadian finance is, in itself, a glowing tribute to the statesmanship of Mr. Bennett. Mr. Stirling suggested. More than 75,000 farmers throughout the Dominion have taken advantage of the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act, whereby compromises have been reached with mortgage holders, and homes and farms saved.

Mr. Stirling made the point that in 1919 Canada, as a signatory of the Versailles Treaty, undertook to fulfill certain obligations of labor reform, but it was not until Mr. Bennett took office that any work was started on these projects, namely, a weekly day of rest, limitations of the hours of labor, social insurance and a Minimum Wage Act.

In reference to the hours of labor and the Minimum Wage Act Mr. Stirling pointed out that had these not been made applicable to the whole of Canada by the Dominion Government, provinces embracing them would be placed in a hopeless position as far as competition with other provinces which had not taken on these plans was concerned.

In conclusion, Mr. Stirling stressed the point that the Conservative party, under the leadership of Mr. Bennett, offers to Canada, on the eve of the election, a strong party with a capable leader, as opposed to an opposition split three ways, and squabbling internally. He then yielded the floor to Mr. Maitland.

"The man who has carried the load," was the theme of Mr. Maitland's speech, in which he dealt with the problems of the past five years, and how they had been met by the Prime Minister of Canada.

As early as 1928, Mr. Bennett, as leader of the opposition, pointed out that the false sense of prosperity, brought about by living off stock profits and unearned increment, could not last forever, and the sudden crash of October, 1929, proved that in Mr. Bennett Canada has a man who can read the economic future with a considerable degree of accuracy," stated Mr. Maitland.

In regard to Mr. Bennett's attitude to the provinces, Mr. Maitland explained that while Mr. King had stated that for the Dominion Government to aid the provinces was unconstitutional, Mr. Bennett, when the help was needed, and made financial arrangements that enabled the provinces to carry on.

The situation in British Columbia has developed to such a state, according to Mr. Maitland, that in every $4 raised by Mr. Pattullo's government, $1 is contributed to Mr. Bennett.

"Many facetious people go about this province asking where are the 'work and wages' promised by Mr. Pattullo's Government," said Mr. Maitland, "while the truth of the matter is that there has been 'work and wages' in British Columbia ever since Mr. Pattullo took over. Mr. Bennett does the work, and Mr. Pattullo gets the wages."

The Ottawa Conference was held up by Mr. Maitland as being one of the most outstanding achievements of Mr. Bennett. The results of Mr. Bennett's trip to London, and the Ottawa conference, which was the result of this trip, had such far reaching consequences as to be a very important factor in the recovery of Canada and the British Empire as a whole, in Mr. Maitland's opinion.

As opposed to Mr. Bennett's energetic movements for improvement of the national and international situation, Mr. Maitland held up Mr. King's attitude during the past five years as one of intolerant criticism, and showing a lack of any vestige of co-operation, at a time when politics should have been laid aside in deference to the good of Canada as a whole.

Mr. Bennett, according to Mr. Maitland, cannot, in any sense of the word, be accepted as a friend of the "big interests" as so often charged, his action along the lines of banking legislation, the railroad situation, and similar problems illustrating this.

In regard to the Natural Products Marketing Act, Mr. Maitland felt that this Act was entirely in line with Mr. Bennett's policy of furthering any measure that would result in benefit to Canada.

"The Okanagan should be congratulated," he said, "in sending a man of the calibre of K. C. Macdonald to Victoria to have worked with him, particularly in regard to the Natural Products Marketing Act schemes, and feel that he has the good of this province deeply at heart."

In conclusion, Mr. Maitland suggested that in the forthcoming election the conscience of the voter should be his guide, after a careful study of existing facts, and an equally careful study of what the immediate future may bring forth, and the future of generations of Canadians as yet unborn.

Preceding as chairman of the meeting, Gordon Lindsay introduced the two speakers in their turn, making brief sketch of their careers when he did so.

DIVIDEND MINE IS NOW OPERATING ON 40 TONS DAILY

OLIVER, B.C., Sept. 14.—Operating twelve hours a day the recently completed mill at Osoyoos Mines Ltd., known as the Dividend, is now running through 4 tons of ore a day as tunneling proceeds. J. O. Howells, M.E., superintendent of the mine, stated today that the mill is to be stepped at once to 50 tons a day.

The ore averages from $15 to $35 in gold a ton, and a considerable quantity assays as high as $100 a ton. With a huge tonnage of ore blocked out the Dividend is now considered a proven mine. Further development continues with diamond drilling, drifting, and cross cutting, and recent discoveries indicate the presence of further large ore reserves.

The problem of water shortage at the mine is to be solved by pumping water from Osoyoos Lake through a 9,000 feet pipeline. Water is now being used from the nearby flume of the Southern Okanagan Irrigation Project. This water is to be shut off in November. The new pipeline will give the mine an independent supply of water the year round.

PENTICTON TURNS THUMBS DOWN ON SUNDAY WORKING

Four and a half miles of roadway in town and on the near benches have recently been treated with special asphalt at a cost of $393 a mile.

Enthusiastic Report Given by Alderman H. Bowman on The Present Day Life of England

Old Country Has Regained Its Prosperity—Depression Has Been Conquered

High optimism for the future, and enthusiastic approval of present conditions, in England, formed the keynote of a speech delivered to the Rotary Club of Vernon, at the regular Monday luncheon by Alderman Harry Bowman, who has recently returned from the Old Country.

Alderman Bowman, in the course of his speech, revealed an England more prosperous than for a great many years, and a country wherein the depression was fast being relegated to the past.

Most significant of all the many salient points mentioned in Mr. Bowman's speech, was the fact that home construction in England is proceeding along hitherto undreamt of lines, the whole countryside being studded with new homes, most of them built under the government's Home Building Scheme, whereby ample funds for the construction of homes are made easily available to workers.

The slum districts of the great industrial centres have been cleared out, their sites now being utilized for parking spaces, while the workers who once were crowded into tenements in these areas have been transferred to roomy suburban homes.

British Columbia fruit is in high favor in England, according to Mr. Bowman, the quality being much superior to other fruits that find their way to the British market, the only criticism being that not sufficient quantity is available.

With a poor season for English apples, and a favorable price prevailing for imported fruit, 1935 should prove a banner year for British Columbia shippers.

Canned tomatoes and salmon are the principal canned produce from this part of the world to be found on the English markets.

In the case of one sash and door factory visited on the outskirts of Sheffield, Alderman Bowman found that all of the wood used there, a matter of some 20 carloads a day, came from British Columbia, and was highly approved of.

The various marketing schemes, and producers' subsidies in force in England, have met with a great measure of success, and agricultural England is in a particularly sound position, according to Alderman Bowman.

Of paramount importance to English dairy interests is the Milk Marketing Act, which rigidly controls the sale of that commodity. A recent vote of those interested showed 81½ per cent of the producers to be in favor of the continuation of the present policy.

Protection For Producers
A very high percentage of the primary producers of England are protected through the marketing acts or subsidies, and in every case benefits are reported. Many of the subsidized industries show every indication of being able to stand on their own feet in a very short space of time. The sugar beet producers, protected by a governmentally subsidy, showed a profit of over $100,000 last year. Potatoes are selling at a price higher than the one specified by the government at the present time.

The fact that recent political changes and controversies in Western Canada have had their repercussions in England was well illustrated by Alderman Bowman when he described an effort on his part to dispose of some City of Victoria bonds on the English market. He was told in Canada, as owing to unsettled political problems, and rash statements on the part of western Canadian executives, it was impossible to dispose of securities from this part of Canada in England.

Financial conditions, on the whole, are excellent, judging from statements issued by the banks after the recent Bank Holiday, it being estimated that there was a greater circulation of money over the holiday than at any previous time in the history of England, the equivalent of approximately two and a half billion dollars changing hands.

Alderman Bowman approves of the method that Australia takes to advertise her products in the Old Country. Space in the windows of leading stores of all moderate sized towns is arranged for, and samples of Australian produce are displayed, thus presenting a concrete example of what the country is placing on the market. This, in Alderman Bowman's opinion, is much more effective advertising than the abstract type used at present by Canada.

General taxation in England, is, on the whole, lighter than here, income tax being less severe, and real property tax in the suburbs being slightly heavier. This is a result of the extensive suburban improvement reconstruction.

Excellent Roads
Travel in England is greatly facilitated by excellent hard surfaced roads, 15 minute bus services to all cities, towns and villages, and adequate railroad service. One feature of railroad travel that appealed particularly to Mr. Bowman was the fact that a ticket purchased is good for one month return, any stopover may be arranged for, and through co-operation among the various companies, the ticket is good on any lines for the return.

Alderman Bowman cited the case of a British Columbia Trade Mission representative who drew attention to himself by his ignorance of the location of Sheffield, a centre at which he was to speak on behalf of this province.

Individual travellers, in Mr. Bowman's opinion, do far more toward promoting inter-empire trade and unity than do official missions, which often prove incapable under actual working conditions.

In conclusion, Alderman Bowman stated that Britain was looking forward to 1936 as a banner year, in which this year's improving conditions would be consolidated and amplified.

DANGEROUS CURVE ON OLIVER ROAD ROUSES COMMENT

Board of Trade Suggests That Precautions Be Taken To Warn Motorists

OLIVER, B.C., Sept. 14.—Sessions of the Oliver Board of Trade have been resumed following a two months vacation, and Wednesday night's meeting was well attended.

The board members discussed the extension of sidewalks on the east and west sides of the main street, and decided to request the Department of Public Works to build these walks from the lumber yard north as far as the Legion Hall, and from the Oliver Garage north to the Legion Hall.

Danger to motor traffic at the curve close to the Devil's Sugar Bowl, on the main highway a few miles south of Okanagan Falls was the cause of comment from a number of members. The Department of Public Works is being requested to erect danger signs at this curve.

TOOLS, STOLEN A YEAR AGO, ARE FOUND BY POLICE

SUMMERLAND, B.C., Sept. 16.—Last week E. R. Paulder considered himself fortunate, because his tools, valued at well over $100, which were stolen over a year ago, were found by Provincial Police Brabant.

Following a clue, the constable crossed Okanagan Lake by motor-bait, to the deserted Dunrobin shack, and removing a pile of old lumber and debris, started to dig. At about 10 inches the shovel struck something hard. Further removal of dirt uncovered the tools chest, with the tools intact, and in very good condition. The find was brought back and identified by Mr. Paulder.

This robbery took place last year at about the same time that several outboard motors disappeared from various places along the lake shore.

Seventy-Five Percent of Export Tonnage is Already Booked

Improved Prices Are Indicated—Threat of War Somewhat Disturbs Sales To Egypt

Seventy-five per cent of the apple tonnage which is estimated by shippers as available for export markets has already been booked and at improved prices as compared with those of last season. These bookings represent about thirty per cent of the valley's entire apple production.

The 1935 export deal particularly to Great Britain at the present time appears to be in a more favorable position than last season.

The crop of 1934 was a crop of large sized apples with a much smaller percentage of sizes suitable for export than average. This year's crop is the reverse and present indications are that it will be similar to the crop of 1933 which was the most desirable crop from an export point of view for the last number of years.

Higher Grades
Indications are that color will also be better than 1934 which will increase the percentage of higher grades and higher grades on the export markets command a much greater premium than is the case on the domestic market.

There has been a reduction in freight rates via the Panama Canal of 7½¢ a box which is a very acceptable concession and this too will result in a higher percentage of export shipments moving by that route.

The rate of exchange is also more favorable than a year ago and if the present level is maintained throughout the season, it will mean an additional return of from 3¢ to 5¢ a box.

The freight rate reduction and the exchange situation, however, only affect consignee shipments beyond of course, the fact that any saving in transportation or other means that can be obtained results in a greater buying demand on the part of those distributors who buy on the f.o.b. basis.

F.O.B. export sales to date appear to be greater in volume than a year ago and at slightly better prices.

There has been a larger quantity of wealthier exports this season than previously and from now until the peak of the packing season, the volume of export shipments will increase daily. It is too early to determine as to what extent other export markets will compare with last year but it seems that they will take approximately the same volume at slightly improved prices.

The only market that is causing any uncertainty at the present is Egypt. Because of the likelihood of a war breaking out in Northern Africa, ship lines operating to that part of the world are reluctant to sign up for cargoes at present rates when there is a possibility of a much more profitable trade opening up in a few weeks with war materials.

Apart from this instance, the threat of war has had but little influence on the situation, shippers declare.

There has apparently been very close co-operation as between the various shippers in maintaining prices on all export markets and the arrangement that has been in effect whereby the various interests got together early in the season and decided on values, has worked out very satisfactory and has undoubtedly been beneficial as far as growers' returns are concerned.

The measures taken by the Tree Fruit Board in regard to maturity and time of shipment have also had a very beneficial effect and there has been very little criticism of any action taken on their part in regard to regulations issued as affecting the export deal.

WEDDING BELLS

Maxwell-Ritchie

SUMMERLAND, B.C., Sept. 16.—The marriage of Catherine Maud, the younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Ritchie, who are among Summerland's oldest residents, and William Maxwell, the son of George Maxwell and the late Mrs. Maxwell of Merritt, was solemnized on Tuesday evening, September 10, in the Baptist church.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Scott, assisted by the Rev. A. W. McLeod of Penticton.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore an ivory satin wedding gown, cut on princess lines, and with a slight train. The long sleeves had lily points, and down the back was a row of tiny self-covered buttons. Her long veil of embroidered silk net was held in place with orange blossoms, and her only ornament was a pearl pin which was given to her mother by her father on their wedding day. She carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses and maiden hair fern.

The bridal party stood under a beautiful floral canopy of pale pink and green, and Miss Margaret Ritchie was her sister's maid-of-honor. The bridesmaid was Miss Gladys Darke. They were similarly frocked in point d'esprit, the former of pale pink with blue sash, the latter of mauve with pale yellow sash. Each carried harmonizing bouquets of small cactus dahlias, and wore long lace gloves, and on their hair bandeaux of tiny flowers.

James B. Fairley of Merritt was the best man, and the ushers were William Ritchie, brother of the bride, and two cousins, Messrs Cecil and Gordon Ritchie.

The nuptial music was played by Miss Ruth Dale, and B. Newton sang "Until" while the register was being signed.

At the reception which followed at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. Ritchie, receiving, wore a pale grey gown of georgette and lace and small white hat. Miss Catherine Findlay, of Kaleden, aunt of the bride, who also received, wore a brown and white ensemble.

The house was decorated with masses of late summer flowers and the three-tiered wedding cake was set in pale pink tulle. Mrs. William Ritchie, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. J. G. Coulter White-poured, and Mrs. L. Perry and Mrs. W. Powell cut the ices.

Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell left by motor for the coast, and for going away the bride wore a smart dark blue Russian suit, small matching hat and a red fox fur, the gift of the groom.

The young couple will make their home at Princeton.

OLIVER MACS ARE NOW BEING PICKED IN GOOD QUANTITY

OLIVER, B.C., Sept. 14.—McIntosh apples are now arriving at the local packing houses in considerable quantity and a good average pick will be obtained. Macs are in splendid shape and size is good.

Jonathans are coloring up well and are a good size for the export trade. Picking of Jonathans will start within a few days.

Other varieties are looking good and cooler weather now prevailing is giving a splendid color to the fruit.

LUTHERAN SYNOD'S "GRAND OLD MAN" PAYS VISIT HERE

Dr. F. Pfothauer, Pioneer Missionary, Is Still Actively At Work For Church

Dr. F. Pfothauer, of Chicago, honorary president of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of the Eastern United States, and pioneer missionary for the Lutheran Church in the prairie provinces of Canada, has been visiting this city for the past four weeks.

Vernon residents were given an opportunity to hear this interesting speaker on September 1 and 8, when he preached at the local Lutheran Church.

Seventy-six years of age, and actively engaged in the Lutheran Church for 55 years, Dr. Pfothauer was president of the Eastern Synod for the past 24 years, retiring recently to the position of Honorary President, after a lifetime spent in promoting the interests of the Synod.

Dr. Pfothauer began his career as a missionary in the then unsettled Northern United States and central Canadian provinces, and was personally responsible for the inauguration of the Lutheran Church in British Columbia.

Now retired from active service, Dr. Pfothauer, who has been signally honored by his Synod on many occasions, and known as "The Grand Old Man" of that organization, intends to remain interested in the work of the Lutheran Church to a high degree.

Dr. Pfothauer left on Friday night for his home in Chicago.

Magistrate Acquits Shipper Facing Charge of Illegally Marketing Car of Vegetables

tion F. confers on the Board the power to cancel a license for violation of its orders. Section 14, moreover, provides the penalty for non-compliance with such orders, and it was under this section that the summary trial, then in process, was being heard.

The defence further argued that the provisions of the Act indicated that the disciplinary action of cancelling a license would follow proof that the allegedly offending company had in some way been acting contrary to the marketing procedure as ordered.

In other words, it was stated, power was not given to the Board to cancel a shipper's license without showing cause, and Magistrate Morley, in his decision, suggested that the indicated course would have been for the Board to lay a charge in an ordinary way, involving whatever the shipping firm was presumed to have been guilty of in marketing procedure. If a conviction followed, the license of the firm could be cancelled under the provision of the Act, and the shipper continued to operate, further prosecution would be fully in order.

The course actually adopted, however, was for the Interior Vegetable Marketing Agency Ltd., to cancel the M. & M. Company's authority as a representative or sub-agency, while the company retained its license from the Vegetable Board. No cause had been revealed by the agency, Mr. Morrow declared. Therefore the designated agency was assuming powers that were not granted under the Marketing Act to the Vegetable Board itself.

The designated agency was not to be construed as the agency of the Board. It was, he said, the agency of the producers, and had, in accordance with the scheme governing the Board, been duly designated as the sole agency through which the vegetable products should be marketed. Any shipper moving vegetables other than through this designated agency was definitely contravening the regulations of the Board, he emphasized, and hence was liable to the penalty provided under Section 14 of the Marketing Act, which reads, in part:

"Every person who fails to comply with any order of the Board, or of a local board, or any regulation of the Governor-in-Council, shall be guilty of an offence."

The rule regarding the sole designated agency was most definitely an order of the local Board, Mr. Norris stressed, and contravention of this rule most clearly indicated that the penalty provided was justified. It was a clear-cut issue, he contended, involving the simple questions as to whether the agency had revoked the M. & M. Company's authority as a sub-agency, and as to whether, in face of this, the company had continued to market vegetables.

The testimony brought forward, the prosecutor continued, left no doubt that the company's sub-agency had been cancelled, and that it had afterwards marketed vegetables. Hence, to his mind, a conviction seemed unavoidable.

To these arguments the defence returned with the frequently asserted point that the Vegetable Board could not cancel a shipper's license, without proving a cause. As it was, in the action then proceeding, no cause had been indicated.

If the Board had no such arbitrary authority, then surely no such authority could be assumed by the agency it delegated, it was declared.

And finally in this regard, great weight was given by both Mr. Morrow and Magistrate to the fact that the Vegetable Board actually had not cancelled the license it had given the M. & M. Company.

"To grant a license is to authorize someone to do something which is otherwise illegal," remarked His Worship, in handing down his decision at the close of the case, "or to authorize by legal permit."

If the accused company has been guilty of any violation of any order of the Board, why has not a charge been laid in the ordinary way, and a conviction obtained, and its license could then have been cancelled under the provisions of the Act?

Under English law a person is considered innocent until proven guilty, and no attempt has been made to do this.

"I therefore find that the B.C. Interior Vegetable Marketing Board has exceeded the authority given it by the provisions of the Marketing Act in that it gave power to the designated agency, the Interior Vegetable Marketing Agency Ltd., to prohibit the M. & M. Fruit Company, Ltd., from marketing produce while they were still in possession of their license given under the Act."

Legal Tiltling

Though presentation of evidence before the court was a lengthy business, occupying nearly the entire day, this testimony was really simple in substance, and the feature of the case was the frequent legal tiltling between counsel. That is, the issue was not over the facts leading up to the case, but over the interpretation of the law involved.

"This case has been all tangled up," Mr. Norris charged, in summing up before the magistrate. "Evidence has been introduced—that is wholly irrelevant. It's just a matter as to whether the Board made an order, and whether there was an infraction. That is all that concerns this court."

Mr. Norris suggested that if the shipping company feels that it has a complaint regarding the treatment given it by the designated agency or the Board, that it has a course of action, other regards, "but not before this court."

"This court," he said, "has only been called to rule upon the question as to whether an order of the Board has been disobeyed. That is all. And other matters drawn in are wholly irrelevant."

The prosecutor said that the evidence clearly showed that J. C. McKinnon, the manager of the company, knew that a sole agency had been created, and the fact that he had shipped through other than that agency.

"Mr. McKinnon himself made all the admissions necessary to secure a conviction."

He explained that the license of the company had been allowed to stand, so as to permit the shipper in question to market through other sub-agencies. To cancel the license would be a much more drastic action than really had been taken.

When this point was raised during the taking of evidence, Mr. McKinnon had retorted with the remark: "When I tried to ship through another sub-agency, they took away the other fellow's right to ship."

In his summing up, Mr. Norris pointed out, however, that the object of the Board was merely to ensure that everyone went through the controlling agency. The object wasn't to put anyone out of business, but to see that everyone marketed the crop through the authorized channels. Hence there had not been the action of cancelling the M. & M. Company's license. Merely its sub-agency had been revoked by the Interior Vegetable Marketing Agency Ltd.

The Board, he argued, has power to designate the agency, which is to be an agency, not of the Board, but of the producers. It is given power to establish an actual monopoly if it wishes. It is to be fair it has created a set-up that allows shippers to carry on and handle their proportions of the crop, so long as they conform to the regulations.

"Yet Mr. McKinnon," he declared,

Belgians Mourn Queen Astrid

A view of the procession accompanying the body of Queen Astrid of the Belgians, through the streets of Brussels, after it was brought from Switzerland, where the queen was killed in an automobile crash near Lucerne.

"flew directly in the face of all orders."

Mr. Norris interjected the remark that it was useless, before this court, to debate the whole background of the Act, might say that the whole Act could be construed as an interference with private rights. You might say the same about the Motor Vehicles Act. But conditions have warranted the Marketing Act. Parliament has recognized the rights of producers."

Power to designate the agency had been conferred on the Board, the prosecutor added, for Parliament has decided that markets shall be stabilized for the benefit of the producers. The Board did designate a single agency, and from then on this agency took charge of the marketing.

Its relationship with the sub-agency became a purely commercial matter. Like an ordinary employer, it could terminate the employment of a sub-agency, at will.

The provincial minister of agriculture, Mr. Norris said, was seeking a somewhat similar arrangement in the Fraser Valley, on the milk marketing question.

With reference to the license question, Mr. Norris summed up his attitude in one pungent statement: "No license authorizes the shipper to break any regulation of the Board."

In his summing up, in addition to pointing out that Mr. McKinnon referred to evidence given by Col. Poole, one of the members of the Vegetable Board. The defence counsel remarked that it was a very funny thing that this member of the Board could not definitely state who the President or directors of the Interior Vegetable Marketing Agency, Ltd., were.

"It's a very queer arrangement," Mr. Morrow declared, "when a Board designates an agency to market the whole crop, and then one of the members of the Board cannot name the directors."

Mr. Norris, in replying to this, declared that the "attack" on the Board member was unfair and unjustified. He said that the Board designated this agency, and from then on, as in any commercial arrangement, the agency took over the marketing. There was nothing "queer" in the retort, in Col. Poole's not knowing who the president or directors were.

Evidence offered included, at one time, the statement that Mr. Norris was one of the directors of the agency, with J. H. Thompson, Secretary of the Board, also as Secretary of the agency. In this connection Mr. Morrow renewed his attack. "One limited company it seems, now has the right to put another incorporated company out of business," was his statement.

Poole Gives Evidence

Called as a witness, Col. Poole gave evidence establishing that one single agency had been designated by the Board, and that shipments through other than that agency were prohibited by the Board's order. On August 29, he testified, he asked the M. & M. Company that invoices for shipments loaded on August 26 be produced, and from these he evidently learned of the sales to the prairies that led to the laying of the charge. Details of this shipment to the National Fruit Company at Lloydminster were listed as follows: 45 baskets green tomatoes; 375 4-basket crates semi-ripened; 281 cucumbers; 17 dill cucumbers; 6 celery; 10 red peppers; 15 green peppers; 30 sacks onions; 20 sacks silverskins.

"Other than the question of marketing without authority, has the Board ever previously heard any complaint regarding the operations of the M. & M. Company?" queried Mr. Morrow in cross-examination.

"Yes, we have," answered the witness.

Mr. Morrow then pressed for details regarding the "hearing," as he termed it, which was held between members of the Marketing Agency and the Board, and leaders of the M. & M. Company.

After this hearing, the agency was apparently satisfied and allowed the shipping firm to continue," Mr. Morrow suggested.

"We were merely satisfied to the point of agreeing to offer a second chance," Col. Poole replied, emphasizing that all the dealings were negotiated by the Agency, rather than the Board.

Further questioning led Mr. Morrow to the remark: "This company is still licensed and the Board has taken no steps to cancel the license," and he then produced the license before the court.

"Do you know why the sub-agency was cancelled?" Mr. Morrow asked. "Because the agency was disrupting the market."

"No, I suggest to you it was because the firm did not have a Tree Fruit Board license," Mr. Morrow then added that when the M. & M. Company was re-instated that certain terms were imposed on it as a sub-agency, which were not demanded of other shippers.

James Hornby, fruit inspector, and I. Bulman, the station agents, were other witnesses called by the prosecutor, to corroborate the evidence of Col. Poole regarding the movement of the vegetables in question.

Morrow Asks Dismissal

Before opening his case Mr. Morrow contended that the prosecution had failed to prove that the control authorities had mailed a copy of their order regarding the one designated agency, to the shipper in question. He contended that a prima facie case had not been made out and moved for a dismissal. This, however, was denied by the magistrate, Mr. Norris arguing that, in the first place, ignorance of the law was no excuse.

The first witness called by Mr. Morrow was Fred Kershaw, car-loader for the M. & M. Company, who alleged that Mr. Hornby, the fruit inspector, always came to him for information, and never did the counting himself. The main purpose of this testimony seemed merely to be that of an attempt to discredit the fruit inspector, and it was later completely disregarded as having any bearing on the issue.

McKinnon On Stand

The next witness, J. C. McKinnon, became however, the most interesting witness of the trial. As manager of the company, he identified the company's charter, and licenses issued by both the Dominion Department of Agriculture and the Vegetable Marketing Board, and also a letter accompanying his certificate of appointment as a representative of the Interior Vegetable Marketing Agency, Ltd., were.

The agency had informed shippers, it was revealed, that their authority to act as representatives might be terminated at any time.

Describing the cancellation of his authority on August 8, Mr. McKinnon stated that he had phoned Col. Poole, who had in turn remarked that the matter was in the hands of a lawyer.

When discussion turned towards the interview held by Mr. McKinnon with the authorities at Kelowna, the witness remarked that it had been stated there that the conversations were without prejudice, and when he was asked what the whole interview must be ruled out, as part could not be entered and part left unrevealed.

"The discussion," Mr. McKinnon said, "was a friendly effort to consider the matter and make every attempt to work out a solution at that time."

The firm was re-instated on August 12, a document being dictated which Mr. McKinnon signed. The agency, apparently, reserved the right to terminate the firm's activities without showing cause, and also stipulated that when it was desired, payments should be made from the firm through the agency.

On August 23, the witness continued, Inspector Tate came to him and asked payment of tolls and dues amounting to about $200. These, he asserted, were not normally due to the agency until September 15. A cheque was given Mr. Tate, however, "and within ten minutes he was back announcing cancellation of the shipping firm as a sub-agency."

"If your company lived up to the rules and regulations of the Board?" Mr. Morrow asked point-blank, to which the witness responded with, "Yes," Mr. McKinnon also replied in the affirmative to the query: "Have you always seen that the produce was marketed in accordance with regulations, and when he was asked: "Have you ever been called before the Board or Agency to explain anything presumably wrong?" he said "No."

Stiff Cross-Examination

In a stiff cross-examination Mr. Norris evoked the information that Mr. McKinnon was a shareholder and director in the company, the other being Mrs. Olara Martyn. The firm has been shipping mostly to the Scott and National Fruit Companies, at Edmonton.

In meeting the argument that the firm had not received a copy of Order No. 1, from the Board, Mr. Norris also drew from Mr. McKinnon the statement that it was common knowledge that there was one agency through which the fruit had to be marketed. He also admitted the firm's authority as a sub-agent had been cancelled. Acknowledging that the firm had shipped a car to Lloydminster, he would not agree that the items as specified in the shipment were correct.

Referring to the statements made regarding the Agency's collection of tolls, Mr. Norris pointed out that these tolls were deducted from growers in the first place, and it meant no real loss to the M. & M. firm.

The lawyers then proceeded with the summing up of their cases, and in legal argument which, as already pointed out, provided the feature of the case.

HARD SURFACING IN SOUTH IS NOW ALMOST FINISHED

OLIVER, B.C., Sept. 14.—Construction of the paved highway from the International Boundary north to Oliver is now well advanced, and the work will be completed within a few days. Week-end rains have caused a halt on the work with about 15 miles of the 15 mile contract finished.

Surfacing much has been dumped along the remaining three miles right up to Oliver town limits. It is understood the pavement will not be continued through the town. The middle of Oliver's main street was paved some years ago and is still in good shape.

PENTICTON MAN'S DAMAGE SUIT IS REFUSED BY COURT

A claim for special damages, for illegal seizure amounting to $2,242.16 brought by C. W. Richards of Penticton against Charles W. Hanson, also of Penticton, was dismissed by Mr. Justice Murphy of the Supreme Court in Vancouver on Thursday of last week. Two minor charges were allowed.

The suit was based on a claim made by Richards that on March 18, Hanson, through a bailiff, made unlawful seizure of a store which he, Richards, was occupying, on which Hanson held a chattel mortgage. It was further claimed that Mrs. Hanson, from whom Richards had rented the building, took possession of the building despite the fact that the rent had been paid to the end of that month.

Richards was allowed $5 and costs in a claim for $1,220 damages against Mrs. Hanson for illegal eviction and $50 in a claim for general damages against Mr. and Mrs. Hanson.

RUTLAND COUPLE CONGRATULATED ON GOLDEN WEDDING

RUTLAND, B.C., Sept. 16.—Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Granger, parents of C. L. Granger, local grower, celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary Sunday, Sept. 8, and received the congratulations and good wishes of their many friends in the Rutland district. The couple have reached the advanced age of 76 years, but are still remarkably alert and active. Both are natives of the U.S.A., but resided many years at Wilkie, Sask., and for a time at Armstrong, B.C., prior to coming to Rutland six years ago.

His young company lived up to the rules and regulations of the Board?" Mr. Morrow asked point-blank, to which the witness responded with, "Yes," Mr. McKinnon also replied in the affirmative to the query: "Have you always seen that the produce was marketed in accordance with regulations, and when he was asked: "Have you ever been called before the Board or Agency to explain anything presumably wrong?" he said "No."

In a stiff cross-examination Mr. Norris evoked the information that Mr. McKinnon was a shareholder and director in the company, the other being Mrs. Olara Martyn. The firm has been shipping mostly to the Scott and National Fruit Companies, at Edmonton.

JUDGE REFUSES INJUNCTION TO POTATO GROWER

Application By Lulu Island Chinese Dismissed By Mr. Justice Robertson

VANCOUVER, B.C., Sept. 18.—Without passing on the validity of the Dominion and Provincial Marketing Acts, Mr. Justice Robertson in Supreme Court on Thursday afternoon dismissed an application for an interlocutory injunction against the B.C. Coast Vegetable Marketing Board, Les Gilmore, who is chairman of the board, and J. Maxwell, an employee.

Mah Bing, Lulu Island potato grower, sought to enjoin the defendants until trial of the action in Supreme Court from interfering in the marketing of his potatoes. His counsel, J. P. Hogg, argued that the Natural Products Marketing Act, both the one passed by Parliament and the other passed by the British Columbia Legislature, were ultra vires.

Mah Bing was stopped on the Marpole bridge on August 12 when he attempted to run a truckload of new potatoes into Vancouver. He owns a 160-acre farm on Lulu Island. He is nominal plaintiff for the Chinese Association of Potato Growers.

"Upon an application for an interlocutory injunction the court must be satisfied that the plaintiff has made out a prima facie case," Mr. Justice Robertson said in his judgment, "and that he will suffer irreparable damage if the injunction is not granted. After careful consideration of all the plaintiff's submissions I am not so satisfied in this case. Accordingly, I dismiss the application. Costs reserved to be dealt with by the trial judge. As I informed—counsel—for the plaintiff on the hearing of the application I shall, if he so desires, hear an application for an early trial."

Opposing the application were Attorney-General Sloan and Alan Maclean, departmental solicitor, Victoria, who appeared for the province; R. L. Maitland, K.C., and J. G. A. Hutchison for the minister of justice and defendants, and T. G. Norris, K.C., of Kelowna, for the Dominion Marketing Board.

Plenty of Money At Oliver For It's Klondike Night

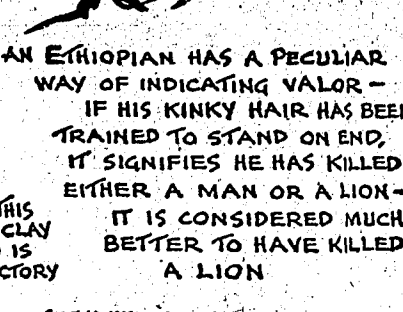

OLIVER, B.C., Sept. 14.—There's money to burn on Klondike Night when the Oliver Tennis Club stage their annual dance and evening of hilarious entertainment. It's only paper money, but it's cheap and plentiful, and it provides the patrons with the means to enjoy the kind of speculative diversion so popular with the old Klondike soughers when they came in from the gold diggings with bulging pockets.

Klondike Night this year is to be held in the Athletic Hall on Friday, October 4. Preparations for the big event were made last night at a tennis club meeting, and committees were appointed to attend to the many details.

Last year Klondike Night brought in net proceeds amounting to more than $125. The money was used for leveling the ground for two new courts, building a netted wire fence, and for the purchase of new tapes and nets.

Empire Apples Now Dominate British Market: Canada Takes Lead as a Favored Customer

Domestic Production In England Is Vital Factor That Governs Sales

Empire-grown apples, mostly Canadian, now dominate the British market and have supplanted those from the United States and other foreign countries which in former years, supplied from half to two-thirds of the British import requirements. This is conclusively revealed in the supplement to the British Fruit Intelligence Notes, an exhaustive analysis of the Old Country market, which was recently received in the Okanagan.

The British market imported 235,000 tons of fresh apples in 1934 of which 226,000 tons came from Empire countries. In 1931 the Empire sold 158,000 tons on the British market and in 1927 only 97,000 tons.

On the other hand, foreign countries supplied 211,000 tons of fresh apples to Great Britain in 1927; 222,000 tons in 1931 and only 69,000 tons last year.

The proportions and quantity imported into Great Britain fluctuates yearly according to domestic production and exportable surplus of other countries.

Canada's share of the British market, has, however, increased steadily with few fluctuations, from 59,000 tons in 1927 to 124,000 tons last year.

While the agreements reached at the last Imperial Economic Conference are responsible to a large degree for this improvement in the Empire's standing on the British apple market, yet, as far as Canada is concerned the steady increase of the Dominion's share is due it is said, to a large extent to the activities of the Canadian Fruit Trade Commissioner attached to the Department of Trade and Commerce and to the steady but constant publicity campaign in Great Britain devoted to popularize Canadian apples.

It has been calculated that Canada ships 91 per cent of her exportable surplus of fresh apples to the British market, Australia 87 per cent and New Zealand 88 per cent.

British imports of fresh apples last year came from the following countries: Canada, 124,000 tons; Australia, 76,000 tons; New Zealand, 23,000 tons; other Empire countries, 3,000 tons; United States, 65,000 tons; France, 3,000 tons, and other foreign countries, 1,000 tons.

While Canada takes second place as a world exporter of apples, with the United States leading and Australia in third place, it is interesting to note that in reported production she stands in ninth place. While Great Britain is the largest importer of apples her domestic production last year totalled 527,000 tons. Although production figures are not available for Soviet Russia, the acreage devoted to apple orchards is estimated at 1,000,000 acres on which are 60,000,000 trees, placing her in second place to the United States in acreage devoted to apples.

In Canada 216,000 acres with 10,389,000 trees were reported devoted to apple culture in 1934.

Doings On The Utellum Ranch

Skimp Talkot was nosing around Utellum Ranch, sizing up the orchard and crop generally. After sizing things up to his own satisfaction he found Will Work and asked, "What do you think of raising fruit now?"

"This is no very good year for me to give an opinion," Will replied. "I didn't get here until nearly mid-summer and, as the place was badly run down, have not been able to make much of an impression yet. I'll be in a better position to answer your question in another two or three years."

"I have been here more than twenty years and get poorer every year," said Skimp.

"Well," says Will, "I hope to do better than that, but I realize that there must be a great many changes made on this place. Many of the trees are stunted and producing fruit too small to ship. There is too much scab and too many worms."

"I intend to prune this place well next winter put in a cover crop of sweet clover in the spring, and maybe apply a little fertilizer this fall. The fumes are in bad condition and some of them not placed right. These must be fixed as soon as I can get around to it."

"There will always be something to fix, Mr. Work. You can spend all your money fixing things and then get nothing back. After you make all the improvements you mention, to increase the growth of the trees, then you will find that your apples are too large. Apples are never right size. It's a wonder some of these slide rule and test tube artists don't invent some kind of an automatic feeder that would control the amount of plant food and moisture taken into the tree."

"Consumers and fruit dealers seem to think that all they have to do is ask for apples of a certain size and they can get them. They must think that we fruit growers are magicians."

"A few years ago I was told to grow small apples and advised to cut out pruning, thin less and irrigate less. I did all this and produced small apples for a while, but now I get mighty few of any kind. It isn't of any use trying to satisfy people. No matter what you do, you are wrong."

"Don't you think you went to extremes in your orchard practices?" asked Will.

"Maybe I did," admitted Skimp. "But, with all the body from the inspectors to the consumer to find fault with your product, there are too many to please. The apple business is impossible. Buyers always want what you haven't got."

"You are not very encouraging to a beginner, Skimp. I hope it isn't as difficult as you suggest."

"If we could grow our apples in molds," says Skimp, "and color them to the demands of consumers, so as to get the right proportion of grades and sizes, it might help; but when you are supposed to make normally large apples small and little apples big, the grower hasn't got a chance. Someday apples will be put in a mold synthetically. A few minutes or hours you will have your apple, large or small, sweet or sour, red, green or yellow, according to specifications. About the time this business gets properly under way some bright bird will be selling 'food producers' for the home, just as they sell electric refrigerators now—and do the factory hands out of a job. These chemists and engineers are changing things so fast that ordinary farmers don't know whether they are going or coming."

"You paint quite a picture, Skimp. Size, flavor and color of apples all under control; diseases, insect pests and all nutritional troubles a thing of the past; just a few hands in a factory turning out apples to order, or mixing a few chemicals put up in packages, to be mixed in water and processed in the 'food producer'."

"Yes," says Skimp. "There won't be any farmers then, and these smart guys will be wondering why they cannot sell their products after putting everybody out of business. They will even get mechanical hands to lay eggs, and tin cows that, when you wind them up, throw a little water, weeds, and a few chemicals inside, will give milk, cream or butter as you desire. Farmers are up against a tough proposition."

"Though science has made rapid strides in many lines, I don't intend to begin worrying about mechanical hens, cows and apple producers," says Will.

"Science progress in some things," offers Skimp, "but not very fast in others. Look how worms are driving growers out of business in some sections because of inadequate insecticides. Fungicides have not improved very much either in the last twenty years. Everything improves but what we need. Drought spot is driving some growers out of business and no satisfactory remedy has been discovered."

"From what I have seen," says Will, "there is room for improvement in insecticides and fungicides, but the growers who apply what we have properly, are getting good results, and I am sure before very long you will hear of a remedy for drought spot."

"If we do it will likely be too expensive for a grower to use," says Skimp.

"I don't think so," replied Will.

"There are," says Skimp, "too many apples now and if remedies are found for everything, the production per acre will go so high that we can never sell the crop."

APPLE DRYING PROCESS IN NOVA SCOTIA LEADS TO QUALITY PRODUCT

KENTVILLE, N.S., Sept. 18.—According to W. S. Blair, D.Sc., Superintendent, Dominion Government Experimental Station for Western Nova Scotia, Kentville, N.S., growers and apple by-products manufacturers in the Annapolis Valley have been following with interest the results which have been obtained with the new and improved drying equipment at the canning factory at Berwick, N.S.

Apples are graded, cored, and sliced in the usual way, and after passing through a dilute acid bath, pass into a large but compact, completely enclosed dryer on slatted trays. These trays pass along and finally upwards on an endless chain, the whole process taking but three hours. The speedy drying makes a high quality product, which is light in color and which, it is claimed, closely approximates fresh fruit when cooked.

Band Cannot Play Copyrighted Tunes Without Permission

The Vernon City Band, whose Polson Park concerts on summer nights are much appreciated by residents and visitors alike, may not play copyrighted pieces to which they have not secured the performing rights, according to a communication received by the Vernon City Council from the Canadian Performing Rights Society.

A representative of the Society was recently in the valley and listened to one of the programs being played by the band, following which he pointed out that the band must secure licensing privileges, before playing certain of the selections.

"We are quite prepared to conform to what is being pointed out," explains R. W. Ley, manager of the band, "but we are not satisfied that we must pay these rights. It should also be remembered that the band is not a professional one, none of the members receiving any recompense. A test case on this issue is now before courts in the East, and we are awaiting the outcome there."

The City Council, at its meeting, decided to refer the matter back to the band, and it was implied that the City Solicitor would be at the band's disposal for advice.
